Kondo, 2020-11-02 This book is open access under a CC BY NC ND 4 0 license This open access book is the first compilation that reviews a wide range of social determinants of health SDHs for non communicable diseases NCDs and healthy ageing in Japan With the highest life expectancy and the largest elderly population in the world Japan has witnessed health inequality by region and social class becoming more prevalent since the 2000s The first half of this volume describes in detail major NCDs such as cancers heart and kidney diseases diabetes stroke and metabolic syndrome The second half on the other hand explores various SDHs relating to healthy ageing All chapters review and focus on SDHs particularly health inequality associated with socio economic status and social capital which are widely addressed in the field of social epidemiology The book makes the argument that Health for All advocated by the WHO should be implemented based on social justice and benefits for the greater society Public health researchers and policymakers both in Japan and other nations will gain scientific evidence from this book to prepare for the coming era as ageing becomes a global issue

The Neonatal Immune System: A Unique Host-Microbial Interface Joseph M. Bliss, James L. Wynn, 2018-01-25 Emerging from the protective environment of the uterus the newborn is exposed to a myriad of microbes and quickly establishes a complex microbiome that shapes the infant's biology in ways that are only now beginning to come to light Among these exposures are a number of potential pathogens The host responses to these pathogens in the neonatal period are unique reflecting a developing immune system even with delivery at term Preterm infants are delivered at a time when host defense mechanisms are even less developed and therefore face additional risk As such the organisms that cause disease in this period are different from the pathogens that are common in other age groups or the disease they cause manifests in more severe fashion Developmental alterations in both innate and adaptive immune responses in neonates have been documented among many cell types and pathways over the last several decades Contemporary insights into the human immune system and methodologies that allow an omics approach to these questions have continued to provide new information regarding the mechanisms that underlie the human neonate as an immunocompromised host This Research Topic highlights studies related to this unique host pathogen interface Contributions include those related to the innate or adaptive immune system of neonates their response to microbial colonization or infection and or the pathogenesis of microbes causing disease in neonates

Review of WIC Food Packages National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Health and Medicine Division, Food and Nutrition Board, Committee to Review WIC Food Packages, 2017-06-25 The Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women Infants and Children WIC began 40 years ago as a pilot program and has since grown to serve over 8 million pregnant women and mothers of and their infants and young children Today the program serves more than a quarter of the pregnant women and half of the infants in the United States at an annual cost of about 6.2 billion Through its contribution to the nutritional needs of pregnant breastfeeding and post partum women infants and children under 5 years of age this federally supported nutrition assistance program is integral to meeting national nutrition policy goals for a significant portion of the U.S. population To assure the continued success of the WIC Congress mandated that the Food and Nutrition Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture USDA reevaluate the program's food packages every 10 years In 2014 the USDA asked the Institute of Medicine to undertake this reevaluation to ensure continued alignment with the goals of the Dietary Guidelines for Americans In this third report the committee provides its final analyses recommendations and the supporting rationale
