The School Journal ,1895 New York School Journal ,1895 Reading Raps Rita Soltan, 2005-12-30 Book clubs are sprouting up all over and so are book club guides but not all book club guides are equal Many focus on a specific type of book club or they take a generic approach of one size fits all and most do not take into account the special needs of librarians and educators working with young readers This guide has it all and it will help you ensure that your book club meetings are both fun and educational Focusing on children in grades 3 8 and their families the book offers 100 ready made book club instructions for popular children s and YA titles from newer releases such as Theresa Nelson s Ruby Electric and Blue Balliett s Chasing Vermeer to perennial favorites and award winning classics such as Johanna Hurwitz s Much Ado about Aldo and Gary Soto s Baseball in April and Other Stories Along with thought provoking discussion questions you ll find all the background information you need to conduct lively book discussions with a variety of readers plot summary themes and characters description genre reading level author and award information related reads and more The guide describes four types of family oriented book clubs family mother daughter father son and readers rap as well as a book club for kids only The author provides practical instructions for making each type of book club successful For each title she provides a plot summary characterization sketches questions to use for provocative discussion and follow up bibliographies on similar reads Notes on genres themes and reading levels are also provided The selected titles reflect some of the best most current and most popular children s literature In addition a broad scope of genres and multicultural titles are included Perfect for public library programs and after school book clubs this is a one stop resource with practical ready made plans that can easily be adapted to multiple environments Grades 3 8

The Christian Union Henry Ward Beecher, 1885 Remembering Child Migration Gordon Lynch, 2015-12-03 Between 1850 and 1970 around three hundred thousand children were sent to new homes through child migration programmes run by churches charities and religious orders in the United States and the United Kingdom Intended as humanitarian initiatives to save children from social and moral harm and to build them up as national and imperial citizens these schemes have in many cases since become the focus of public censure apology and sometimes financial redress Remembering Child Migration is the first book to examine both the American orphan train programmes and Britain s child migration schemes to its imperial colonies Setting their work in historical context it discusses their assumptions methods and effects on the lives of those they claimed to help Rather than seeing them as reflecting conventional child care practice of their time the book demonstrates that they were subject to criticism for much of the period in which they operated Noting similarities between the American orphan trains and early British migration schemes to Canada it also shows how later British child migration schemes to Australia constituted a reversal of what had been understood to be good practice in the late Victorian period At its heart the book considers how welfare interventions motivated by humanitarian piety came to have such harmful effects in the lives of many child migrants By examining how strong moral motivations can deflect critical reflection legitimise power and build unwarranted bonds of trust it explores the promise and risks of humanitarian sentiment
