In Search of the Unknown Robert William Chambers, 2020-09-28 Because it all seems so improbable so horribly impossible to me now sitting here safe and sane in my own library I hesitate to record an episode which already appears to me less horrible than grotesque Yet unless this story is written now I know I shall never have the courage to tell the truth about the matter not from fear of ridicule but because I myself shall soon cease to credit what I now know to be true Yet scarcely a month has elapsed since I heard the stealthy purring of what I believed to be the shoaling undertow scarcely a month ago with my own eyes I saw that which even now I am beginning to believe never existed As for the harbor master and the blow I am now striking at the old order of things But of that I shall not speak now or later I shall try to tell the story simply and truthfully and let my friends testify as to my probity and the publishers of this book corroborate them On the 29th of February I resigned my position under the government and left Washington to accept an offer from Professor Farrago whose name he kindly permits me to use and on the first day of April I entered upon my new and congenial duties as general superintendent of the water fowl department connected with the Zoological Gardens then in course of erection at Bronx Park New York For a week I followed the routine examining the new foundations studying the architect's plans following the surveyors through the Bronx thickets suggesting arrangements for water courses and pools destined to be included in the enclosures for swans geese pelicans herons and such of the waders and swimmers as we might expect to acclimate in Bronx Park It was at that time the policy of the trustees and officers of the Zoological Gardens neither to employ collectors nor to send out expeditions in search of specimens The society decided to depend upon voluntary contributions and I was always busy part of the day in dictating answers to correspondents who wrote offering their services as hunters of big game collectors of all sorts of fauna trappers snarers and also to those who offered specimens for sale usually at exorbitant rates To the proprietors of five legged kittens mangy lynxes moth eaten coyotes and dancing bears I returned courteous but uncompromising refusals of course first submitting all such letters together with my replies to Professor Farrago One day towards the end of May however just as I was leaving Bronx Park to return to town Professor Lesard of the reptilian department called out to me that Professor Farrago wanted to see me a moment so I put my pipe into my pocket again and retraced my steps to the temporary wooden building occupied by Professor Farrago general superintendent of the Zoological Gardens The professor who was sitting at his desk before a pile of letters and replies submitted for approval by me pushed his glasses down and looked over them at me with a whimsical smile that suggested amusement impatience annoyance and perhaps a faint trace of apology

In Search of the Unknown in Medieval Architecture John James, 2007-12-31 John James is an Australian architect and medieval historian Since 1969 he has been searching for the origins of the Gothic style beginning with a five year study of Chartres cathedral At that time there were no coherent techniques for analysing the detailed construction history of existing stone structures This he created He expanded his research to include all the early Gothic churches in the Paris region with a three year survey of over 3500 buildings His most important discovery has been that all churches of this period were constructed in many short campaigns by mobile building teams and that major innovation was more likely to occur in the smaller buildings than in the larger This volume makes available 42 of the author s studies on the development of Gothic architecture in France

In Search of the Unknown Robert W. Chambers,2022-09-16 Robert W Chambers In Search of the Unknown is a captivating exploration of the boundaries between reality and the supernatural delving into the realms of mystery and existential inquiry Written during the late 19th century a period marked by the tension between scientific progress and the intrigue of the unexplained Chambers employs a lush yet concise literary style The narrative weaves together elements of gothic horror and philosophical pondering resulting in a text that challenges the reader s perceptions while evoking an atmosphere thick with suspense and arcane knowledge The intertwined stories reveal profound reflections on human nature and the elusiveness of understanding the unknown As a prominent figure in early 20th century American literature Chambers was deeply influenced by the cultural milieu of his time particularly the fascination with mysticism and the occult His background as a painter and his interest in symbolist art informed his writing enabling him to create vivid evocative imagery that lingers in the reader s mind Chambers engagement with the psychological dimensions of his characters illuminates his understanding of the fears and uncertainties that drive humanity toward the mystical In Search of the Unknown is a must read for anyone intrigued by the interplay of the known and the mysterious It invites readers to embark on a thrilling intellectual journey beckoning those who dare to confront the shadows that lie beyond the familiar This profound work remains relevant today offering insights into the perennial human quest for meaning and connection with the inexplicable     Athenaeum and Literary Chronicle ,1863
