Assessment in Geographical Education: An International Perspective Theresa Bourke,Reece Mills,Rod Lane,2022-02-27 In recent years there has been increased attention paid to the importance of assessment in Geographical Education the chosen subject for this book Assessment is an important tool for collecting information about student learning and for providing timely data to inform key stakeholders including students teachers parents and policymakers To be effective assessment needs to be valid reliable and fair Validity is about ensuring that we assess what we claim we are assessing Reliability is about measuring performance and understanding in a consistent way Without validity and reliability assessment is unlikely to provide equitable opportunities for students to demonstrate what they know and can do As geography educators it is therefore important that we identify the core concepts and skills in geography that we want students to master We need a clear understanding of what the progression of learning looks like for each concept and skill so we can develop fit for purpose assessments that track and improve student learning While there is a substantial literature on evidence based assessment in secondary school contexts research exploring best practice assessment in geography is rare This is a concern given the distinctive nature of geography and the important role of assessment in the learning process This scholarly collection seeks to address this issue by connecting research in educational assessment with the domain of geography The chapters are written by leading researchers in Geographical Education from across the globe These chapters provide examples of innovation through the collective voices of geography teacher educator scholars from across Australia USA South Korea Germany Switzerland and Singapore What unifies the work in this book is that each chapter focuses on a key feature of the discipline of geography providing scholarly examples of evidence based practices for assessing student s knowledge and skills

Rethinking Map Literacy Ming Xie,Steven Reader,H. L. Vacher,2021-03-29 This book provides two conceptual frameworks for further investigation of map literacy and fills in a gap in map literacy studies addressing the distinction between reference maps and thematic maps and the varying uses of quantitative map literacy QML within and between the two The text offers two conceptual frameworks and uses specific map examples to explore this variability in map reading skills and knowledge with the goal of informing educational pedagogy and practices within geography and related disciplines The book will appeal to cartographers and geographers as a new perspective on a tool of communication they have long employed in their disciplines and will also appeal to those involved in the educational pedagogy of information and data literacy as a way to conceptualize the development of curricula and teaching materials in the increasingly important arena of the interplay between quantitative data and map based graphics The first framework discussed is based on a three set Venn model and addresses the content and relationships of three literacies map literacy quantitative literacy and background information As part of this framework the field of QML is introduced conceptualized and defined as the knowledge concepts skills and facts required to accurately read use interpret and understand the quantitative information embedded in geographic backgrounds The second framework is of a compositional triangle based on 1 the ratio of reference to thematic map purpose and 2 the level of generalization and or distortion within maps In combination these two parameters allow for any type of map to be located within the triangle as a prelude to considering the type and level of quantitative literacy that comes into play during map reading Based on the two frameworks mentioned above the pedagogical tool of word problems is applied to map literacy in an innovative way to explore the variability of map reading skills and knowledge based on specific map examples
