How To Be A Cover Supervisor:

How to Be a Cover Supervisor John J. Cazorla, 2014-10-15 This is a book for Cover Supervisors the after thought in any school's timetabling. They are frequently brought in in a haphazard way with little or no training and expected to take or even teach full classes with very little notice and support. This book shows how Cover can be done effectively and even enjoyably for both the Cover Supervisor and the kids. A to Z for Cover Supervisors Wendy D. Ward, 2014-08-15 Monthly

Catalog of United States Government Publications, 1953 Teachers Under Pressure Maurice Galton, John MacBeath, 2008-08-15 This is a well written and thoroughly researched book on an issue of vital importance. It places the experiences of individual teachers under pressure into the larger UK and worldwide context. Policy makers need to wake up to its messages. Sara Bubb, Institute of Education, University of London. What is it really like to be a teacher in today's demanding classrooms? Maurice Galton and John MacBeath spoke to teachers, parents and students in England and compared their responses to similar inquiries in Asia, America, Australia and New Zealand. Their findings were disturbing. Teacher stress and workload were persistent themes in the four studies, with teachers frequently stretched to breaking point as they endeavour to make a difference to their pupils' learning and welfare. Issues examined in the book include frustrations facing those trying to make inclusive education work in practice, effects of constantly changing policies on the staff required to implement them, loss of status within the teaching profession, reasons for teachers choosing to leave the profession, the consequences of staying on and fighting for what one believes in. This fascinating read will be of interest to anyone involved in teaching, school leadership and educational policy. Reassessing the Impact of Teaching Assistants Peter Blatchford, Anthony Russell, Rob Webster, 2012-02-20 Over the last decade, teaching assistants (TAs) have become an established part of everyday classroom life. TAs are often used by schools to help low-attaining pupils and those with special educational needs. Yet despite the huge rise in the number of TAs working in UK classrooms, very little is known about their impact on pupils. This key and timely text examines the impact of TAs on pupils' learning and behaviour and on teachers and teaching. The authors present the provocative findings from the ground-breaking and seminal Deployment and Impact of Support Staff (DISS) project. This was the largest, most in-depth study ever to be carried out in this field. It critically examined the effect of TA support on the academic progress of 8,200 pupils, made extensive observations of nearly 700 pupils and over 100 TAs and collected data from over 17,800 questionnaire responses and interviews with over 470 school staff and pupils. This book reveals the extent to which the pupils in most need are let down by current classroom practice. The authors present a robust challenge to the current widespread practices concerning TA preparation, deployment and practice, structured around a conceptually and empirically strong explanatory framework. The authors go on to show how schools need to change if they are to realise the potential of TAs. With serious implications not just for classroom practice but also whole school, local authority and government policy, this will be an indispensable text for primary, secondary and special schools, senior
