Dear

Hi! How are you?

I just thought I'd write to say thank you very much for the lovely Christmas presents. It was so kind of you to think of us all. Jack and I really enjoyed the wine and chocolates once the children were in bed and the children loved their Snakes and Ladders game. We have had lots of fun playing it together.

I am really tired now as I have done so much cooking in the last few weeks! Jack's sister and her family came for Christmas and then my parents came for New Year. There were ten of us all squeezed into our house at one point! They all went home yesterday leaving me with a mountain of dirty washing!

It was lots of fun for all of us having the family here. We really enjoyed watching The Railway Children on ITV together on New Year's Day. It is a real old favourite of ours.

Jenny and Joshua went back to school today so I will now have some time to tidy away all the presents & take down the decorations. I always feel a bit sad when we put the tree back in its box in the loft. Don't you?

I hope that you all had a lovely Christmas and I would like to wish you all the best for 2010. I hope you don't get too much snow down there in Medway! The weather forecast doesn't look good!

Please write back soon and tell me all your news

Love from Julie, Jack, Jenny & Joshua

Montaigne Hugo Friedrich, 1991-07-16 Friedrich considers the Montaigne of the Essays on of the first moralists in the French sense of the term recording with anthropological fervor and in fresh informal language the full spectrum of human thought and commerce as he saw it Philippe Desan who introduces this fine translation commends Friedrich's holistic interpretation of Montaigne's unstructured creation so often reduced by critics to its smallest fragments Friedrich says Desan evokes an epoch distilled from accounts given by the best witness of the Renaissance

The Lever of Riches Joel Mokyr, 1992-04-09 In a world of supercomputers genetic engineering and fiber optics technological creativity is ever more the key to economic success But why are some nations more creative than others and why do some highly innovative societies such as ancient China or Britain in the industrial revolution pass into stagnation Beginning with a fascinating concise history of technological progress Mokyr sets the background for his analysis by tracing the major inventions and innovations that have transformed society since ancient Greece and Rome What emerges from this survey is often surprising the classical world for instance was largely barren of new technology the relatively backward society of medieval Europe bristled with inventions and the period between the Reformation and the Industrial Revolution was one of slow and unspectacular progress in technology despite the tumultuous developments associated with the Voyages of Discovery and the Scientific Revolution What were the causes of technological creativity Mokyr distinguishes between the relationship of inventors and their physical environment which determined their willingness to challenge nature and the social environment which determined the openness to new ideas He discusses a long list of such factors showing how they interact to help or hinder a nation's creativity and then illustrates them by a number of detailed comparative studies examining the differences between Europe and China between classical antiquity and medieval Europe and between Britain and the rest of Europe during the industrial revolution He examines such aspects as the role of the state the Chinese gave up a millennium wide lead in shipping to the Europeans for example when an Emperor banned large ocean going vessels the impact of science as well as religion politics and even nutrition He questions the importance of such commonly cited factors as the spill over benefits of war the abundance of natural resources life expectancy and labor costs Today an ever greater number of industrial economies are competing in the global market locked in a struggle that revolves around technological ingenuity The Lever of Riches with its keen analysis derived from a sweeping survey of creativity throughout history offers telling insights into the question of how Western economies can maintain and developing nations can unlock their creative potential
