Informative Research Paper Example:

Thinking Sociolinguistically Paul McPherron, Trudy Smoke, 2018-12-06 This is a practical guide to planning conducting and presenting a sociolinguistic research project Written in an accessible and engaging style the book begins with a brief review of what sociolinguists study and how they study it before guiding students step by step through the research process It presents a range of qualitative and quantitative data collection and analysis methods including surveys interviews and corpora supported by examples from both published researchers and student projects Drawing on the experiences of their own students the authors provide supportive guidance on common areas of difficulty such as framing questions selecting participants and interpreting data The final part shows you how to organise and write up your findings Chapters are further enriched with hands on activities and discussion questions This is an essential companion for budding sociolinguistic researchers with a desire to understand the linguistic landscapes around them and communicate their findings to others

Writing the Community Linda Adler-Kassner, Robert Crooks, Ann Watters, 2023-07-03 The first volume in AAHE and Campus Compact's series on service learning in the disciplines the book discusses the microrevolution in college level Composition through service learning The essays in this volume show why service learning and communication are a natural pairing and give a background on the relationship between service learning and communication with maps to suggest where it should go in the future Understanding and Evaluating Research Sue L. T. McGregor, 2017-10-25 Understanding and Evaluating Research A Critical Guide shows students how to be critical consumers of research and to appreciate the power of methodology as it shapes the research question the use of theory in the study the methods used and how the outcomes are reported The book starts with what it means to be a critical and uncritical reader of research followed by a detailed chapter on methodology and then proceeds to a discussion of each component of a research article as it is informed by the methodology The book encourages readers to select an article from their discipline learning along the way how to assess each component of the article and come to a judgment of its rigor or quality as a scholarly report A Practical Guide to

Scientific Writing in Chemistry Andrew Terhemen Tyowua, 2023-03-31 Successful completion of postgraduate studies especially PhD and career advancement in academia strongly depend on the ability to publish scientific papers or books and attract research grants However many chemical scientists find preparing scientific papers and research grant and book proposals difficult partly because of insufficient training in writing and partly because there are few practical books to enable them to learn the art This step by step practical guide is intended mainly for postgraduate students and early career researchers in chemical science and the libraries that serve them but will also be useful to other scientists Key Features Improves the reader's chances of getting their manuscript published in chemistry journals Increases the likelihood of winning research grants in chemistry Takes a lead by the hand approach Contains chapters on the preparation of graphical abstracts and research highlights Uses sketches and other illustration styles to aid mental visualization of concepts Contains practical examples taken from published papers and successful research grant proposals      A Practical Research Process for Developing a Sustainable Built Environment in Emerging Economies Andrew Ebekozi, Clinton Ohio

Aigbavboa, Wellington Didibhuku Thwala, 2025-02-19 A Practical Research Process for Developing a Sustainable Built Environment in Emerging Economies aims to fill the dearth of practical research guidance and reference material with specific focus on the built environment in developing countries Global policy agendas such as Agenda 2030 the SDGs highlight the importance and growth of research and knowledge from emerging nations who are increasingly contributing to research that is critical for development and advancement The role of built environment practitioners will continue to evolve by building on the sound foundations laid down by the professions and by exploiting to the full the new technologies available to us through conducting innovative research but more guidance on the research process is necessary to ensure the integrity and quality of the output This book has been structured so that each chapter is largely free standing allowing the reader undergraduate postgraduate or practitioner to reference the material with ease It aims to provide practical guidance on conducting research and on writing a dissertation or report and begins by considering the general research background in a built environment context It then covers research ethics before moving on to discuss the importance of selecting the right research topic and title and writing a clear abstract The chapters then cover introducing a research project and the authors include a section on the problem statement research questions aims and objectives research gaps and motivations for the study The book goes on to cover the literature review section theoretical and conceptual frameworks the various types of methodological approaches and when to apply them The findings section discussion of the results and the study's implications are then discussed before the final chapters cover the conclusion and recommendations The book provides a useful reference for higher education students graduates postgraduates and practitioners engaged in all aspects of construction and built environment research      Learn To Write The Research Introduction with Examples (2)

Remote Online Language Assessment: Eliciting Discourse from Children and Adults Natalia Gagarina, Angel Chan, Wenchun Yang, 2024-08-20 Being able to collect valid data is crucial for empirical science disciplines such as linguistics developmental psycholinguistics clinical psycholinguistics and speech and hearing sciences In recent years there has been an increasing use of digital devices for remote language assessments such as online elicitation of language samples apps for eliciting expressive and productive lexical abilities and online questionnaires With the ongoing COVID 19 pandemic still affecting many lives globally there have been numerous disruptions of face to face in person language assessments leading many researchers to conduct their language assessments online Despite the necessity of remote language assessments and the convenience they may bring to both assessors and assessees the potential merits limits and problems of remote testing have not yet been systematically explored and understood This timely Research Topic seeks contributions that mobilize new evidence and or insightful and nuanced discussions to address questions such as can we control online testing so that it is as good as face to face in person testing and if so how Do we have evaluative evidence of such practices and if so how robust is the evidence What adaptations and concerns can and cannot be accommodated at the present time What opportunities are offered by recent technological advances Are there certain conditions in which online testing works better or worse Last but not least how do differences between offline in person language assessments and online remote assessments affect the results of testing The current topic has two main foci the first deals with the assessment of conversational discourse in general and narrative discourse in particular in both children and young adults Communicative competence at the discourse level has been considered an essential and ecologically valid component in language assessments of children and adults for three key reasons 1 this competence is crucial for an individual s everyday functioning and academic and social life 2 it provides information about an individual s socio cognitive and linguistic abilities and 3 it is a versatile test of language skills at the levels of content form use and their integration The second focus is on comparing the results elicited via in person assessments and remote online assessments This Research Topic welcomes empirical articles discussing new evidence perspective and opinion papers on issues at the conceptual methodological interface and methods articles presenting approaches that can offer opportunities for remote testing of developmental discourse supported by recent technological advances Potential themes may include but are not limited to comparisons of remote versus in person testing modes using a within participants research design learner variables such as age gender language status monolingual multilingual and clinical status typically developing children and adults children and adults with clinical conditions such as developmental language disorder autism spectrum disorder which may affect the efficacy of remote testing linguistic variables such as the use of referential and relational devices and mental state language which may be subject to more variations when being assessed remotely new methods that offer opportunities for the remote testing of developmental and adult discourse supported by recent technological advances articles addressing the same research question within developmental narrative discourse but using different i e either online or offline research methods

Active Reading Ben Knights,Chris Thurgar-Dawson,2008-06-01 The subject of this book is the crossover between critical study and creative writing Active reading is a structured process of writing activities using imitation variation and experimentation Through practical composition techniques such as transformational writing re writing or translation students can use writing activities to develop their critical imagination This book bridges the gap between theories of learning and Literary studies in Higher Education Setting the argument in an historical and theoretical context it outlines the importance of writing as a medium of learning and argues for its usefulness in aiding English students understanding of theoretical as well as literary and cultural texts The authors provide a reflective account of teaching and assessment methods using writing activities and critical thinking techniques and the forms of learning they promote In the last section they explore the connections with other forms of writing practice in related disciplines and argue for the role of transformational writing in promoting independent learning Appendices provide examples of the range of activities that can be used and an indicative list of literary examples
