

APA STYLE CHEAT SHEET

How to cite a journal article using APA style

To cite a journal article using APA style, you need to cover the following details of the source in the following sequence:

SOME POINTS TO REMEMBER!

- Invert the authors' names, i.e., an author's last name should appear first followed by his/her initials, each of which must be followed by a period (.)
- If the source has only 2 authors, separate them using an ampersand (&) instead of "and"
- The title of the article must be followed by a period
- The title of the journal or periodical must be italicized and followed by a comma (,)
- The issue number must be followed by a comma and there should be no space between it and the volume number
- Page numbers must be followed by a period

Beins, 2007-03-27 This book provides a showcase for best practices in teaching statistics and research methods in two and four-year colleges and universities. A helpful resource for teaching introductory, intermediate, and advanced statistics and/or methods, the book features coverage of ways to integrate these courses, how to promote ethical conduct, how to create writing-intensive programs, novel tools and activities to get students involved, strategies for teaching online courses and computer applications, guidance on how to create and maintain helpful web resources, assessment advice to help demonstrate that students are learning, tips on linking diversity to research methodology. This book appeals to veteran and novice educators and graduate students who teach research methods and/or statistics in psychology and other behavioral sciences and serves as an excellent resource in related faculty workshops. Downloadable resources with activities that readers can customize is included.

Fire & Ice Carol A. Mullen, 2005 Fire & Ice presents the educational inquiry process to school practitioners and aspiring leaders. The context for this study is unusual because it addresses inquiry learning at both the master's and doctoral level and within group settings. The picture that emerges illustrates ways for mentors to engage graduate students in learning, writing, and research through collaborative structures with an emphasis on learning communities as the primary vehicle for growth and success. In the book, graduate students have served as research participants, focus group members, and survey respondents in their dual role as peer mentor. Because graduate education is being challenged to meet the changing needs of the twenty-first century, the influence of the professions on academic degrees has meant that students must develop as scholar-practitioners instead of strictly intellectual academics. Metaphorically, the fire (possibility, desire, and content) and ice (restraint, structure, and form) of scholarly inquiry is used as a literary device to capture what it might mean for students to perform inquiry.
