Now Vincent Lavoie, 2003-01-01 While the crisis that took place in photojournalism during the 1960 s brought about a significant shift in the practices discourses and institutional structures of press photography it also affected the practices of artists specifically with regard to work devoted to revitalizing the depiction of events The art world attempted to revitalize the historical genre by undertaking its critical rereading in the spirit of restoring a tradition diminished by the mass media The problem may be expressed in these terms How can history be depicted bearing in mind that the media mainly photojournalism and the electronic press have claimed a monopoly of the genre unto themselves At issue is the sizeable problem of mass media omnipotence as an obligatory referential universe for historiographical artistic practices Today it seems impossible to depict the event in any way other than by accentuating or eschewing the formal attributes rhetorical artifices and ideological precepts of the mass media These approaches to addressing historical moments have been examined in this article both because they epitomize contemporary historical writing and for the most part they constitute critical responses to stereotyped depictions of events Above all they represent a paradigm shift the mass media s prerogatives for depicting historical moments has shifted towards the field of art Contemporary depictions of catastrophe crimes sensationalist news items terrorist attacks humanitarian disasters genocides common themes in many of the artistic projects represented in the 8th edition of the Mois de la Photo a Montreal have been especially striking in this respect For of all contemporary events catastrophes are the most likely to be spontaneously propelled to the top of the news roster and the most susceptible to the various inflections of contemporary art photography Manet, Baudelaire and Photography

Larry LeRoy Ligo, 2006 This book represents a radical reappraisal of the life and work of Edouard Manet Through a thorough examination and interpretation of nearly every major painting and many of the prints Manet exhibited publicly between 1861 and 1882 the author arrived at the following conclusions First Manet was vitally and consistently concerned with the iconographical content of his major work second the iconographical content of Manet s work throughout his career was determined by a single underlying set of principles third the underlying principles from which Manet s iconography consistently derived had their origins in the aesthetics of Charles Baudelaire fourth the form of Manet s Baudelairean content was consistently derived from the appearance and ontology of mid nineteenth century photography fifth Manet consistently presented emblematic veiled self portraits in his work and sixth the particular feature of Baudelairean aesthetic employed by Manet at any given time in his career was determined to a large extent by autobiographical concerns The author argues that Manet s widely acknowledged adaptation of japonisme and impressionism can also be seen as further manifestations of his underlying Baudelairean cosmology Publisher s website Traité encyclopédique de photographie Charles Fabre, 1902

Dada and beyond Elza Adamowicz, Eric Robertson, 2011 This collection of critical essays celebrates the subversive and challenging creativity of the Dada movement born in pacifist Zurich in 1916 in violent reaction to the First World War It examines the collective and individual activities that took place under the name of Dada in Zurich Cologne Berlin Paris New York and Barcelona and explores the various creative forms employed including text collage photomontage objects dance performance and film The authors suggest new ways of understanding the work of the most famous Dadaists while also casting light on the contribution of hitherto neglected figures Far from attempting to reduce Dada to a homogeneous movement or to define a unifying principle beneath and beyond the multiple directions taken by Dadaists this collection aims to respect the diversity and heterogeneity of the movement's collective activities as well as the specificity of its individual actors
