The content provides an overview of how evidence from fundamental research on social emotional competencies can be translated in applied research for developing prevention programs. The Social Emotional Prevention program framework is presented as a multi-focused child teacher parent hybrid approach for both high risk and non risk preschoolers. The book offers a systematic and in depth evaluation of SEP efficacy including classroom risk group and individual level effects. Hence the proposed approach employs different research designs and statistical methods to explore how behavioral changes occur as a result of children's participation to the intervention. Each study's findings are discussed in terms of corresponding implications for practice in schools but also from a broader perspective including implications for policy makers in the field of early education. gfgffv

Unified Protocol for Transdiagnostic Treatment of Emotional Disorders in Children Jill

Ehrenreich-May, Sarah M. Kennedy, Jamie A. Sherman, Emily L. Bilek, David H. Barlow, 2017-12-20 Cognitive behavior therapy CBT is arguably the most effective psychotherapy model for children and adolescents with emotional disorders e.g. anxiety, depression, obsessive compulsive disorders, trauma and stress related disorders etc. Emotional disorders in youth frequently overlap or co-occur and yet many of the existing effective therapies available for children and adolescents with emotional disorders target just one or a smaller subset of these problems. The Unified Protocols for Transdiagnostic Treatment of Emotional Disorders in Children and Adolescents, based in groundbreaking research from Jill Ehrenreich-May, David H. Barlow, and colleagues, suggest that there may be a simpler and more efficient method of utilizing effective strategies such as those commonly included in CBT in a manner that addresses the broad array of emotional disorder symptoms in children and adolescents. The child and adolescent Unified Protocols do this by framing effective strategies in the general language of strong or intense emotions more broadly and by targeting change through a common lens that applies across emotional disorders. Specifically, the child and adolescent Unified Protocols help youth by allowing them to focus on a straightforward goal across emotional disorders: reducing intense negative emotion states by extinguishing the distress and anxiety these emotions produce through emotion-focused education, awareness techniques, cognitive strategies, problem-solving, and an array of behavioral strategies including a full range of exposure and activation techniques. The Unified Protocol for children and adolescents comprises a Therapist Guide as well as two Workbooks, one for children and one for adolescents. Unified Protocols for Transdiagnostic Treatment of Emotional Disorders in Children and Adolescents Jill Ehrenreich-May, Sarah M. Kennedy, Jamie A. Sherman, Emily L. Bilek, Brian A. Buzzella, Shannon M. Bennett, David H. Barlow, 2018. The Unified Protocols for Transdiagnostic Treatment of Emotional Disorders in Children and Adolescents suggest that there may be a simple and efficient method of utilizing effective treatment strategies such as those commonly included in CBT in a manner that addresses the broad array of emotional disorder symptoms in children and adolescents. The Unified Protocol for children and adolescents comprises a Therapist Guide as well as two Workbooks, one for children and one for adolescents. Day Treatment for Children with Emotional Disorders G.K. Farley, S.G. Zimet, 2013-11-11. The life span of day treatment for children in the United States is relatively short, covering a period of about 50 years. Although the first 20 years saw little growth in the number of centers operating around the country, the concept of day treatment was recognized by the Joint Commission on Mental Illness and Health in 1961 as the most significant treatment innovation of this century. Enthusiasm for this treatment modality gained impetus from growing dissatisfaction among many mental health care providers who had no choice but to place children in a highly restrictive hospital environment. Day treatment did not carry the stigma associated with inpatient placement. The children could now remain with their own families and within their own communities. The parents could be actively included in their child's treatment. This new modality avoided the short and long-term negative effects of institutionalization and there was a favorable cost discrepancy between day and inpatient mental health services. In more recent years there has been growing evidence of the efficacy of day treatment as an intensive therapeutic environment for children and their parents. Despite these advantages, day treatment has continued to be underutilized in favor of inpatient treatment by both the psychiatric community and third party payers. Only recently is it being acknowledged by some insurers as a therapeutically sound and financially advantageous alternative to inpatient services. Consequently, it is showing signs of intense growth nationally.
