An Alternative Transportation Fuels Update Sharon Lewis, Papa S. Travare, 2011 As the United States imports more than half of its oil and overall consumption continues to climb the 1992 Energy Policy Act established the goal of having alternative fuels replace at least ten percent of petroleum fuels used in the transportation sector by 2000 and at least thirty percent by 2010. Currently alternative fuels consumed in Alternative Fuel Vehicle (AFVs) account for less than one percent of total consumption of gasoline. This paper examines how alternative fuel E85 can be used to reverse that trend. In addition, this research paper will take a look at some of the ongoing government decisions concerning the use of the alternative fuel E85 and will discuss what policy makers might hold for the future in terms of the supply and demand of alternative fuels in the United States. This case study will be useful to all stakeholders involved in the transportation industry including but not limited to the government policy makers, automakers, motorists, and researchers eager to find a just balance with both a better transportation system and a healthy and clean environment IBEW Journal, 2006
