Going Crazy In The Green Machine:

Going Crazy in the Green Machine John J. Whelan, 2014-11-18 Many Canadians are vaguely aware of the military's steady involvement in overseas operations over the past 20 years. For many soldiers, however, memories of these places torment them daily. They are haunted; they are changed from who they were as proud men and women. How do we support these soldiers to find their way back home? The story of Master Corporal Billy Reardon is an intimate portrayal of his journey from young man to mentally wounded military veteran. We see the world through his eyes as the toll of his deployments mounts and as he struggles within the mental health system. We also see him find recovery and reconnection to the military brotherhood along with other veterans. Billy's story raises questions about the roles of front-line leadership and challenges health providers to develop an intimate understanding of military culture as a prerequisite to assisting traumatized veterans and their families.

Ghost in the Ranks John J. Whelan, 2016-04-25 Operational Stress Injuries and Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) are among the possible consequences facing members of the Canadian military. Unlike the potential physical consequences of dangerous deployments, psychological injuries are not always apparent. Military members are taught a mental skillset to help them manage their internal emotional worlds, allowing them to do extraordinary things. Unfortunately, while ingrained military training prepares our men and women for action as capable soldiers, this same training may also require them to trade aspects of their humanness, sowing the seeds for lingering mental distress. As a result, those most affected are left in a limbo, disconnected from their military roles and yet unable to relate to their former civilian lives. They become ghosts of their former selves, haunting the ranks until, more often than not, they find themselves on the outside, looking in, with unacknowledged scars, anger, and regret. We ask a great deal of our men and women in uniform: if a shift in culture can help members of our military with mental distress, we owe it to them to make that shift possible. www.whelanpsych.com

Treated Like a Liability David T. MacLeod, Harold O. Leduc, 2019-08-26 War has evolved, and so have Canada's security needs. A key asset in any military is high-quality personnel. However, the Canadian Armed Forces' ability to attract quality personnel hinges on the success of Veterans Affairs Canada's ability to care for service men and women and their families. The essays in this book identify failures within the Government of Canada and Veterans Affairs Canada to address the needs of veterans, especially the wounded and their families. The Government of Canada advertises benefits and services that veterans are supposed to receive, but institutional bias and indifference prevent them from accessing these much-needed resources. In addition to outlining various problems within the current system, this book offers numerous solutions to help policymakers, veterans, and others work together to rectify this situation, enabling Canada to continue to meet its military needs and obligations both at home and abroad.

Masculinities at the Margins Amanda Chisholm, Joanna Tidy, 2020-05-18 Across a rich terrain of empirical and theoretical trajectories, the concept of military masculinity is now understood in its plural as military masculinities. It has been a significant conceptual tool in both feminist international relations

IR and in critical men and masculinities studies scholarship The concept has helped us to unpack the relationships between gender war and militarism including how military standards function in the production of wider normative hegemonic manliness As such military masculinities has been a rewarding tool for many scholars who take a critical approach to the study of war and the military This edited volume advances an emerging curiosity within accounts of military masculinities This curiosity concerns the silences within and disruptions to our well established and perhaps too comfortable understandings of and empirical focal points for military masculinities gender and war The contributors to this volume trouble the ease with which we might be tempted to synonymize militaries war and a neat hegemonic masculinity Taking the disruptions the asides and the silences seriously challenges the common wisdoms of military masculinities gender and war in productive and necessary ways Doing so necessitates a reorientation of where to whom and for what we look to understand the operation of gendered military power The chapters were originally published in a special issue of Critical Military Studies

The Murder Artist John Case, 2004-10-12 The bestselling author of The Genesis Code and The Eighth Day now strikes his most harrowing chord with a chilling novel that pushes suspense to nearly inhuman limits As a television news correspondent Alex Callahan has traveled to some of the most dangerous corners of the globe covering famine plague and war He s seen more than his share of blood and death and knows what it means to be afraid But what he s never known is the terror that grabs him when on a tranquil summer afternoon he ceases to be an observer of the dark side and to his shock becomes enmeshed in it Separated from his wife and struggling not to become a stranger to his six year old twin sons Alex is logging some all too rare quality time with the boys when they vanish without a trace amid the hurly burly of a countryside Renaissance Fair Then the phone call comes A chilling silence slow steady breathing and the familiar plaintive voice of a child Daddy complete the nightmare and set in motion a juggernaut of frenzy and agony The longer the police search exhausting leads without success the deeper Alex s certainty grows that time is running out And when at last telltale signs reveal a hidden pattern of bizarre and ghoulish abductions Alex vows to use his own relentless investigative skills to rescue his children from the shadowy figure dubbed The Piper Whoever this elusive stranger is the profile that slowly emerges from previous crimes involving twins from the zealously secret world of professional magicians and from the eerie culture of voodoo suggests that The Piper is a predator unlike any other A twisted soul hell bent on fulfilling an unspeakably dark dream A fiend with a terrifying true calling What Alex Callahan is closing in
