Committee on Public Works, 1969 Australia's Nuclear Policy Michael Clarke, Stephan Frühling, 2016-03-03 Australia's Nuclear Policy Reconciling Strategic Economic and Normative Interests critically re-evaluates Australia's engagement with nuclear weapons, nuclear power and the nuclear fuel cycle since the dawn of the nuclear age. The authors develop a holistic conception of nuclear policy that extends across the three distinct but related spheres: strategic, economic and normative that have arisen from the basic dual-use dilemma of nuclear technology. Existing scholarship on Australia's nuclear policy has generally grappled with each of these spheres in isolation. In a fresh evaluation of the field, the authors investigate the broader aims of Australian nuclear policy and detail how successive Australian governments have engaged with nuclear issues since 1945. Through its holistic approach, the book demonstrates the logic of seemingly conflicting policy positions at the heart of Australian nuclear policy, including simultaneous reliance on US extended deterrence and the pursuit of nuclear disarmament. Such apparent contradictions highlight the complex relationships between different ends and means of nuclear policy. How successive Australian governments of different political shades have attempted to reconcile these in their nuclear policy over time is a central part of the history and future of Australia's engagement with the nuclear fuel cycle. Laser Isotope Separation and the Future of Nuclear Proliferation Ruben M. Serrato, 2010-10 Laser isotope separation (LIS) is an emerging technology that uses relatively small, widely available lasers to achieve civilian or weapons-grade concentration of fissile material to fuel nuclear reactions. To date, only a few limited proliferation risk analyses of LIS technology have been conducted. This paper provides a historically and technically informed update on the current state of LIS technology and it explains the high likelihood of increased global LIS adoption. The paper also explains how international rules governing nuclear energy are ill-equipped to handle such new technology. It traces the current limitations to broader issues in international relations theory, especially the incomplete accounts of the role of technology in the proliferation dynamic in the dominant neorealism and social construction of technology approaches. The paper introduces the concept of international technology development structure, a framework for understanding how technology-related opportunities and constraints at the international system level influence state nuclear weapons choices. The paper provides a thorough update of recent international laser innovations relevant to laser isotope separation and it explains how the spread of laser-related knowledge expands state nuclear options and influences their choices. The paper also provides a country-by-country update on LIS programs and it uses the example of Iran's laser isotope separation program to show how existing International Atomic Energy Agency efforts and export control approaches will be inadequate to addressing dual use technologies such as LIS It concludes by proposing a new course that links good standing in nuclear non proliferation agreements to participation in the World Trade Organization global conferences and fundamental university research Ultimately the paper attempts to provide a comprehensive account of how emerging laser isotope separation technology presents non proliferation challenges and it attempts to explore options for addressing this new period in technological achievement and change Official Summary of Security Transactions and Holdings ,1944 Report United States.
