

Expository Education Essay

To begin with, while traditional education considers the main value of educational process to be the knowledge transferred to the student, Botkin's innovative education presents the knowledge as a means rather than an end, at the same time orienting at the development of the student's personality through knowledge. It is less concerned with controlling the educational process, trying to create circumstances in which the student would establish his or her own goals and achieve them, while transforming his or her own self and self-regulating the studying process.

Traditional education represents in itself more or less stable structure, without undergoing dramatic differences in the course of years. The accumulation of knowledge goes on, of course, but only in the subjects where it is impossible to avoid, for example, history and literature, which are being expanded all the time. Curriculum for exact sciences, like physics or mathematics may not change for decades. Botkin offers another decision, which presupposes that educational system is dynamic, ever-changing structure that is being regrouped and renewed constantly, with new programs and educational disciplines appearing all the time.

As opposed to reproductive nature of traditional education (the student perceives information and reproduces it), innovative education is supposed to be only and specifically creative process. It should teach students to create text irrespectively of its subject, understand information even if it has never been perceived by the student yet, solve any problems by means of independent thinking rather than applying pre-existing, memorized solutions.

It also cancels the long-lasting tradition of relationship "teacher-student" as "superior-inferior", making both the teacher and the student equal participants of educational process, who work on one and the same task in cooperation, rather than submission. Any kind of outside control is supposed to be harmful for the process and, therefore, abolished, with its place taken by self-control, mutual control and coordination.

Of course, the self-sufficient system of education based on equality of teacher and student may look really alluring, but all the same, it is more of a utopia than reality. Botkin idealizes children and thinks that it is possible to create such system; reality would most likely say "no".

middle and this was a central impetus for updating Doing Good Science in Middle School. From the preface: This lively book contains the kind of guidance that could only come from veterans of the middle school science trenches. The authors know you're crazy busy so they made the book easy to use whether you want to read it cover to cover or pick out sections to help you with lesson planning and classroom management. They also know you face new challenges so they thoroughly revised this second edition to meet the needs of today's students. The book contains big picture concepts such as how to understand middle school learners and explore the nature of science with them; a comprehensive overview of science and engineering practices; STEM and inquiry-based middle school science instruction aligned with A Framework for K-12 Science Education and the Next Generation Science Standards; 10 new and updated teacher-tested activities that integrate STEM with literacy skill building; information on best instructional practices and professional development resources; and connections to the Common Core State Standards in English language arts and mathematics. If you're a new teacher, you'll gain a solid foundation in how to teach science and engineering practices while better understanding your often enigmatic middle grade students. If you're a veteran teacher, you'll benefit from a fresh view of what your colleagues are doing in new times. Either way, Doing Good Science in Middle School is a rich opportunity to reaffirm that what you do is good science. Bilingualism for All? Nelson Flores, Amelia Tseng, Nicholas Subtirelu, 2020-12-16. It is common for scholarly and mainstream discourses on dual language education in the US to frame these programs as inherently socially transformative and to see their proliferation in recent years as a natural means of developing more anti-racist spaces in public schools. In contrast, this book adopts a raciolinguistic perspective that points to the contradictory role that these programs play in both reproducing and challenging racial hierarchies. The book includes 11 chapters that adopt a range of methodological techniques: qualitative, quantitative, and textual disciplinary perspectives; linguistics, sociology, and anthropology; and language foci: Spanish, Hebrew, and Korean. To examine the ways that dual language education programs in the US often reinforce the racial inequities that they purport to challenge. Language Sampling With Children and Adolescents Marilyn A. Nippold, 2020-12-18. The third edition of Language Sampling With Children and Adolescents: Implications for Intervention provides guidelines for analyzing spoken and written language production in both children and adolescents. The text, which is geared for graduate students and practicing speech language pathologists, has been expanded to include preschool children ages 3-4 years and school age children ages 5-11 years in addition to adolescents ages 12-18 years. Included within the book are numerous figures, tables, and practical exercises with answer keys to help readers understand how to analyze the content and structure of the different discourse genres: conversational, narrative, expository, and persuasive, and how to utilize this information in establishing functional language goals and implementing intervention activities for children and adolescents with language disorders. The ability to express oneself with accuracy, clarity, and efficiency is essential for success in social, academic, and vocational settings. Language Sampling With Children and Adolescents: Implications for Intervention, Third Edition, is a must.
