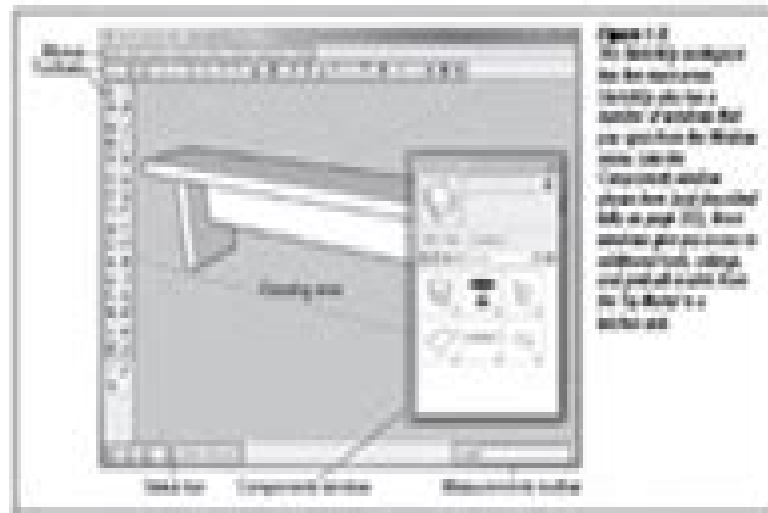

Figure 1-1: The SketchUp window. The SketchUp window is the main window for the SketchUp application. It contains the 3D model you are working on, the Tools menu, the Component window, and the SketchUp window. The Tools menu is open, showing various tool options. The Component window is open, showing the list of components in the model. The SketchUp window is the main window for the SketchUp application.

In addition to the five main windows, SketchUp also includes several other windows, such as the Component window that's open in Figure 1-1. You can open and close these as needed by using the Window menu. With the tools in three windows, you'll apply color and shading to your models, select prefabricated components, add shadows and lighting effects, and export your project.

Don't Be Afraid to Play

When you get started, don't be afraid to play. SketchUp is a 3D modeling application, and it's designed to be fun. Don't be afraid to play with the tools and see what happens. The SketchUp application is designed to be fun, and it's designed to be easy to learn. Don't be afraid to play with the tools and see what happens. The SketchUp application is designed to be fun, and it's designed to be easy to learn.

SketchUp's menu bar is styled with the most popular, such as File, Edit, Window, and Help. SketchUp's View menu is a little different from the ones in most programs (Figure 1-2). The View menu has items in the SketchUp window that you can show or hide, including things like the drawing guides, wire frame, measurement tools, and view different models. If you're looking for tools that change over time of the SketchUp window, such as a View or the tool, look under the View menu.
