University Governance in Kenya Mulinge, Munyae M.,Arasa, Josephine N.,2017-05-05 This book examines the concept of the democratization of governance in universities in Kenya with particular emphasis on students involvement in governance processes and decision making Data were collected from members of the student community utilizing a structured self administered questionnaire and from purposively selected key informants and focus group discussants drawn from Kenyatta University representing the public sector and the United States International University representing the private sector The guiding argument for the study was that shared governance one of the principles of good governance is critical in enabling the universities to deliver their visions and the missions effectively The results revealed that while in principle Kenyan universities have embraced democratic governance in which all stakeholders including students have a role to play in practice they continue to violate the core principles of good governance particularly shared governance Specifically students who are major stakeholders in university education are largely excluded from significant structures of governance thereby limiting their influence and participation. Although their representation is mainly provided via student self governance organs, unions, associations and or councils, their effectiveness is undermined considerably by the lack of trust and confidence of the student body and the unending manipulation by top university administrators and external political actors. Student active involvement in decision making is mainly confined to lower levels such as the school faculty and departmental programme. The authors call for a paradigm shift in the involvement of students in the governance of universities in ways that discourage the current culture of tokenism and political correctness that characterizes public and private universities in Kenya.

Reframing Police Education and Freedom in America Martin Alan Greenberg, Beth Allen Easterling, 2023-09-15. This book untangles the components of police education and advocates a robust community based training model with significant civilian oversight. The recommended approach recognizes that the citizenry needs to be included in the provision of basic police education for it is they who must both support and be served by their police. The police must be role models for society demonstrating that freedom and rights come with obligations both to the community as a whole and to individuals in need within that community. Ultimately the quality of police training and the public's safety depend not only on the leadership of police executives as well as the quality of educational institutions and police candidates but also on the building of a community's trust in its police. The issues of police recruitment, education and retention have greater consequence in an era when protests and other signs of negativity surround law enforcement. Several incidents including most notably George Floyd's murder by police have sparked new training initiatives regarding police de-escalation and community engagement. At the same time the proliferation of gun violence and a contentious political climate have led some officers to refrain from undertaking proactive types of policing. In this context reform of the police education system is urgent. This book examines police training at all levels of government: local, regional, state and federal. In addition, citizen participation programs including the role of the media and programs for furthering law related education (LRE) are highlighted. The proposed police education model recognizes that ordinary members of the American public need to contribute to the provision of basic police education for it is they who must both support and be served by their police. The focus is on teaching a guardian style of policing at the local level. Police education would combine higher education, necessary practical proficiencies and intensive field experiences through a gradual level of greater responsibility likely extending over a 2 plus year period for trainees with less than a year of previous college credits. This book will be of interest to a wide range of audiences such as law enforcement professionals and trainers including those in executive development programs in police departments, community leaders, scholars and policy experts who specialize in policing, concerned citizens and students of criminal justice especially those interested in police organization and management, criminal justice policy and the historical development of police.

Discourses We Live By: Narratives of Educational and Social Endeavour Hazel R. Wright, Marianne Høyen, 2020-07-03. What are the influences that govern how people view their worlds What are the embedded values and practices that underpin the ways people think and act Discourses We Live By approaches these questions through narrative research in a process that uses words images activities or artefacts to ask people either individually or collectively within social groupings to examine discuss portray or otherwise make public their place in the world their sense of belonging to and identity within the physical and cultural space they inhabit This book is a rich and multifaceted collection of twenty eight chapters that use varied lenses to examine the discourses that shape people s lives The contributors are themselves from many backgrounds different academic disciplines within the humanities and social sciences diverse professional practices and a range of countries and cultures They represent a broad spectrum of age status and outlook and variously apply their research methods but share a common interest in people their lives thoughts and actions Gathering such eclectic experiences as those of student teachers in Kenya a released prisoner in Denmark academics in Colombia a group of migrants learning English and gambling addiction support workers in Italy alongside more mainstream educational themes the book presents a fascinating array of insights Discourses We Live By will be essential reading for adult educators and practitioners those involved with educational and professional practice narrative researchers and many sociologists It will appeal to all who want to know how narratives shape the way we live and the way we talk about our lives

Becoming Somebody in Teacher Education Kari Kragh Blume Dahl, 2021-03-01 Becoming Somebody in Teacher Education explores the realities of contemporary teacher education in Kenya Based on a long term ethnographic fieldwork it views the teacher training institution as a space to grow become and be shaped as teachers in complex moral worlds Drawing on a rich conceptual and theoretical vocabulary the book shows how students in these teacher education institutions constantly negotiate and confront the complex constructions of ethnicity gender and class as well as moral religious and academic issues and a lack of resources encountered in the different institutional cultures It outlines a complex array of concerns affecting student teachers that shape what professional becoming means in a stratified and diverse culture This story of the process of growing up and becoming a professional teacher in an African setting will appeal to researchers academics and students in the fields of teacher education organizational studies international education and development social anthropology and ethnography

The Report: Kenya 2014 Oxford Business Group, 2014-11-13 The country has a strong private sector and received encouraging forecasts of new oil gas and water reserves which if harnessed appropriately bode well for future growth While a pending international court case resulting from prior elections provoked a measure of uncertainty the country s medium to long term economic outlook is robust With over 40% of the population under the age of 15 Kenya stands to benefit from a significant demographic dividend provided that sufficient jobs can be found when this population bulge enters the workforce The country has a reasonably sized industrial base competitive infrastructure and a large agricultural sector all of which offer opportunities for capital intensive investment

Contextualizing Indigenous Knowledge in Africa and its Diaspora Ibigbolade Aderibigbe, Alloy

Ihuah,Felisters Kripono,2015-09-04 This volume proposes a wholesale adoption of African Indigenous Knowledge Systems AIKS as a paradigm for Africa s renewal and freedom from the whims of foreign interests These systems as argued here involve balancing short term thinking and immediate gratification with longer term planning for future generations of Africans and the continent s diaspora The book will be of interest to anyone concerned with development studies in Africa and its diaspora as it offers plausible solutions to Africa s chronic developmental problems that can only be provided from within Africa rather than through the intervention of external third parties As such it provides vital contributions to the ongoing search for viable answers to the challenges that Africa faces today Pass The 63 - 2015(tm) Robert M.
