My Name Is Fagan:

My Name Is Fagan Lyle Doux, 2014-12-19 My Name is Fagan My name is Fagan these of the notes from my journals kept well hidden for as many years as I can remember behind the desk nearest my bed You see I loved to write at night about the wondrous things I did or occurred to me during the day and it was in the peace of the night that I found the house still and my mind clear for writing On August 30th 1957 at 8 15 am William Collins was born into the Wealthy land owning family of the long established Collins Family of Pennsylvania The news of this blessed event run throughout the town with great joy as the family had been without a male heir The mother of the child Mrs Mildred Collins had given birth at home with the attending doctor arriving thirty minutes after delivery But that wasn't the strangest part of it that day would be the start of my murderous ways and being paid for the effort made it all the more thrilling On August 31st the police were summoned to the Collins residence on Morris St at 9 45 am The police arrived and were directed to a small cottage near the back entrance of the home known to the family as the maid's quarters the home of a Miss Edith Tylor Miss Tylor had been murdered either late evening of the 30th or early on the 31st police were at first undecided Detectives arrived at the home at 10 45 am interview the husband Mr Frederick Collins After more than an hour detectives then interview the doctor and a housekeeper Police on location took photographs and collected evidence Miss Tylor had a sister Ellen also working at the Collins home but was not present for questioning Though the police saw me standing in the room they never questioned me never asked who I was nor why I was there how strange the police are Detectives returned to the Collins home on the 3rd of September to interview Mrs Collins after they had collected evidence from the doctor Dr Richard Merriweather During the interview with the good doctor it was made known the baby not by Mrs Collins but rather by Miss Tylor who had agreed to have the child for the Collins Family The sister Ellen had been brought in to aid in the birth which the family wished to have at the home so that the overall arrangement of the birth would not be made known to the general public Little evidence was collected at the crime scene there were no unknown finger prints found no evidence of forced entry and little evidence of trauma The entire household was again interviewed but police and detectives were unable to find anything that might lead them to the murderer The little widow, and other episodes.
