Gastronomy, Tourism and the Media Warwick Frost, Jennifer Laing, Gary Best, Kim Williams, Paul C. Strickland, Clare Lade, 2016-07-27 This book examines and analyses the connections between gastronomy tourism and the media It argues that in the modern world gastronomy is increasingly a major component and driver of tourism and that destinations are using their cuisines and food cultures in marketing to increase their competitive advantage It proposes that these processes are interconnected with film television print and social media The book emphasises the notion of gastronomy as a dynamic concept in particular how it has recently become more widely used and understood throughout the world The volume introduces core concepts and delves more deeply into current trends in gastronomy the forces which shape them and their implications for tourism The book is multidisciplinary and will appeal to researchers in the fields of gastronomy hospitality tourism and media studies You Aren't What You Eat Steven Poole, 2012-09-28 We have become obsessed by food where it comes from where to buy it how to cook it and most absurdly of all how to eat it Our televisions and newspapers are filled with celebrity chefs latter day priests whose authority and ambition range from the small scale what we should have for supper to large scale public schemes designed to improve our communal eating habits When did the basic human imperative to feed ourselves mutate into such a multitude of anxieties about provenance ethics health lifestyle and class status And since when did the likes of Jamie Oliver and Nigella Lawson gain the power to transform our kitchens and dining tables into places where we expect to be spiritually sustained In this subtle and erudite polemic Steven Poole argues that we're trying to fill more than just our bellies when we pick up our knives and forks and that we might be a lot happier if we realised that
