SA Mining ,2006-05 Marikana Peter Alexander,Thapelo Lekgowa,Botsang Mmope,Luke Sinwell,Bongani Xezwi,2013-08-01 The Marikana Massacre of August 16 2012 was the single most lethal use of force by South African security forces against civilians since the end of apartheid Those killed were mineworkers in support of a pay raise Through a series of interviews conducted with workers who survived the attack this account documents and examines the controversial shootings in great detail beginning with a valuable history of the events leading up to the killing of workers and including eyewitness accounts of the violence and interviews with family members of those who perished While the official Farlam Commission investigation of the massacre is still ongoing many South Africans do not hold much confidence in the government's ability to examine its own complicity in these events Marikana on the other hand examines the various roles played by the African National Congress the mine company and the National Union of Mineworkers in creating the conditions that led to the massacre While the commission's investigations take place in a courtroom setting tilted toward those in power Marikana documents testimony from the mineworkers in the days before official statements were even gathered offering an unusually immediate and unfiltered look at the reality from the perspective of those most directly affected Enhanced by vivid maps that make clear the setting and situation of the events Marikana is an invaluable work of history journalism sociology and activism The Chemical Engineer ,2008 Ownership and Governance of Companies Jonathan Michie,Vishnu Padayachee,2021-06-29 Apartheid South Africa was often thought to run in the interests of the business elite Yet 27 years after apartheid those business interests remain largely entrenched Why Did the South African business community play a role in engineering this outcome perhaps recognising the apartheid era was over and jumping ship in time Conversely the mission of the ANC was widely perceived to be to shift wealth and power into the hands of the whole community Yet despite black empowerment measures corporate ownership remains largely in white hands and certainly in the hands of an elite few even though no longer restricted to whites This picture is replicated across the global south where corporate ownership tends to be concentrated in the hands of an elite rather than being more democratically spread Why have alternative corporate forms not been pursued more vigorously with ownership in the hands of customers employees and local communities In the case of South Africa where the majority of customers and employees are black this could have delivered on the ANC's mission to replace the apartheid era with a democratic one in terms of wealth incomes and power as well as in terms of voting and civic rights This edited volume explores all these questions and looks at ways to align corporate forms with economic and social goals The chapters in this book were originally published as special issues of International Review of Applied Economics Babel Unbound Lesley Cowling,Carolyn Hamilton,2020-05-15 In this timely original and sophisticated collection writers from the Global South demonstrate that forms of publicness are multiple mobile and varied The notion that societies mediate issues through certain kinds of engagement is at the heart of imaginings of democracy and often centers on the ideal of the public sphere But this imagined foundation of how we live collectively appears to have suffered a dramatic collapse across the world with many democracies apparently unable to solve problems through talk or even to agree on who speaks in what ways and where In the 10 essays in this timely original and sophisticated collection writers from southern Africa combine theoretical analysis with the examination of historical cases and contemporary developments to demonstrate that forms of publicness are multiple mobile and varied They propose new concepts and methodologies to analyse how public engagements work in society Babel Unbound examines charged examples from the Global South such as the centuries old Timbuktu archive Nelson Mandela as a powerful absent presence in 1960s public life and the challenges to the terms of contemporary debate around the student activism of rhodesmustfall and feesmustfall These show how issues of public discussion span both archive and media verbal debates in formal spaces and visual performances that circulate in unpredictable ways

The Spirit of Marikana Luke Sinwell, Siphiwe Mbatha, 2016-07-20 On 16th August 2012 thirty four black mineworkers were gunned down by the police under the auspices of South Africa's African National Congress ANC in what has become known as the Marikana massacre This attempt to drown independent working class power in blood backfired and is now recognised as a turning point in the country's history The Spirit of Marikana tells the story of the uncelebrated leaders at the world's three largest platinum mining companies who survived the barrage of state violence intimidation torture and murder which was being perpetrated during this tumultuous period What began as a discussion about wage increases between two workers in the changing rooms at one mine became a rallying cry for economic freedom and basic dignity This gripping ethnographic account is the first comprehensive study of this movement revealing how seemingly ordinary people became heroic figures who transformed their workplace and their country
