My Pet Essay Parrot:

The Science Delusion Curtis White, 2013-05-28 One of our most brilliant social critics author of the bestselling The Middle Mind presents a scathing critique of the delusions of science alongside a rousing defense of the tradition of Romanticism and the big questions With the rise of religion critics such as Richard Dawkins and of pseudo science advocates such as Malcolm Gladwell and Jonah Lehrer you are likely to become a subject of ridicule if you wonder Why is there something instead of nothing or What is our purpose on earth Instead at universities around the world and in the general cultural milieu we are all being taught that science can resolve all questions without the help of philosophy politics or the humanities In short the rich philosophical debates of the 19th century have been nearly totally abandoned argues critic Curtis White An atheist himself White nonetheless calls this new turn scientism and fears what it will do to our culture if allowed to flourish without challenge In fact in scientism White sees a new religion with many unexamined assumptions In this brilliant multi part critique he aims at a TED talk by a distinguished neuroscientist in which we are told that human thought is merely the product of our connectome a map of neural connections in the brain that is yet to be fully understood He whips a widely respected physicist who argues that our new understanding of the origins of the universe obviates any philosophical inquiry and ends with a learned defense of the tradition of Romanticism which White believes our technology and science obsessed world desperately needs to rediscover It is the only way he argues that we can see our world clearly and change it
