Psychology Douglas A. Bernstein, 2014-06-26 This volume provides thoroughly updated guidelines for preparing and teaching an entire course in psychology Based on best principles and effective psychological and pedagogical research it offers practical suggestions for planning a course choosing teaching methods integrating technology appropriately and effectively developing student evaluation instruments and programs and ideas for evaluation of your own teaching effectiveness While research based this book was developed to be a basic outline of what to do when you teach It is intended as a self help guide for relatively inexperienced psychology teachers whether graduate students or new faculty but also as a core reading assignment for those who train psychology instructors Experienced faculty who wish to hone their teaching skills will find the book useful too Communication in Accounting Education Richard M.S. Wilson, F. Elizabeth

Gray, Lynn Hamilton, 2016-04-14 Accounting often described as the language of business requires a diverse set of written listening and oral communication skills if those who practise it are to be effective Given the pace of change relating to for example the evolution of international accounting standards and the demands for greater transparency accountants must be clear responsive and audience focussed communicators Employers of accountants consistently comment on the need for their new graduate recruits and trainees to have strong written oral and interpersonal communication skills In this light accounting educators face the challenge of designing and delivering programmes that reflect professional expectations on the part of employers and clients and educating students on how to make informed communication choices in order to achieve desired results and to build good working relationships The chapters in this book deal with such topics as accounting students perceptions of oral communication skills competence based writing skills and the development of listening skills This book was originally published as Accounting Education an international journal Purpose in Life Kendall Cotton

Bronk, 2013-09-04 This volume integrates and makes sense of the growing body of theoretical and empirical research conducted on purpose across the lifespan It opens with a comprehensive yet detailed discussion of the definitions of purpose most commonly used in studies on the topic In addition to defining the construct the author also discusses its philosophical roots and distinguishes it from related concepts including meaning goals and ultimate concerns This volume discusses the disparate perspectives on the construct and addresses the tendency to position purpose in the broader frame of positive psychology It synthesizes distinct strands of research on purpose across the lifespan it explores studies on the daily and longer term experience of a purposeful existence and it delves deeply into the wide range of measurement tools that have been used to assess the purpose construct Further it examines the prevalence and forms of purpose among diverse groups of youth and discusses the developmental trajectory of the construct Other topics discussed include the central role of purpose in supporting optimal well being and positive youth development The book closes with empirically supported steps adults educators and mentors can take to effectively and intentionally foster purpose among young people and makes recommendations for future research on the topic

Political Pressures on Educational and Social Research Karen Trimmer, 2016-05-12 Political Pressures on Educational and Social Research draws upon a variety of theoretical and methodological approaches to consider the problems that can arise when research findings diverge from political directions for policy Chapters explore the impacts this can have on the researchers as well as the influence it has on the research including the methodology and the publication of results The book offers innovative ways of seeing how these connect overlap and interact revealing particular issues of concern for researchers and evaluators in the context of research internationally Key topics include the power and positioning of research evidence based policy development ethics and the importance of research that seeks to explore and discover knowledge The book is divided into two sections The first presents chapters from international academics which provide a theoretical underpinning and discussion of power policy ethics and their influence on research resourcing autonomy purpose and methodology The second section explores specific case studies and instances from the authors own experiences in the field This book offers an interesting and enlightening insight into the sometimes political nature of research and will appeal to researchers evaluators and postgraduate students in the fields of education and the social sciences It will be of particular interest to those studying research methods

Basic Processes in Memory Development C.J. Brainerd, M. Pressley, 2013-11-11 For some time now the study of cognitive development has been far and away the most active discipline within developmental psychology Although there would be much disagreement as to the exact proportion of papers published in developmental journals that could be considered cognitive 50% seems like a conservative estimate Hence a series of scholarly books devoted to work in cognitive development is especially appropriate at this time The Springer Series in Cognitive Development contains two basic types of books namely edited collections of original chapters by several authors and original volumes written by one author or a small group of authors The flagship for the Springer Series is a serial publication of the advances type carrying the subtitle Progress in Cognitive Development Research Each volume in the Progress sequence is strongly thematic in that it is limited to some well defined domain of cognitive developmental research e g logical and mathematical development development of learning All Progress volumes will be edited collections Editors of such collections upon consultation with the Series Editor may elect to have their books published either as contributions to the Progress sequence or as separate volumes All books written by one author or a small group of authors are being published as separate volumes within the series

The Nordic Education Model Ulf

Blossing, Gunn Imsen, Leif Moos, 2013-10-21 This book presents a detailed analysis of the educational model in Nordic European countries. It describes the traditional idea of education for all which can be characterized by the right for every child to have an education of equal quality in a common school for all pupils regardless of social class, abilities, gender or ethnicity. Against this background, The Nordic Education Model traces the rise of neo liberal policies that have been enacted by those who believe the School for All ideology does not produce the knowledge and skills that students need to succeed in an increasingly competitive and global marketplace. It examines the conflict between these two ideas and shows how neo liberal technologies affect the Nordic model in different ways. The authors also show how social technologies are being interpreted in different ways in actual school practices. This process of translating national regulations into internal sense builds on the values in the culture to which they are introduced. In the end, this book reveals that a Nordic model can constitute a delicate balance between traditional values, institutionalized practices and contemporary neo liberal forms of governance and policies. It may be argued from a new institutional perspective that the main structures of the Nordic educational model will sustain as long as the deeply rooted Nordic culture survives in the globalised society. Family and School Capital: Towards a Context Theory of Students' School Outcomes K. Marjoribanks, 2013-03-14 One of the persistent challenges confronting societies is how to reduce inequalities in the educational and occupational attainment of students from different socio economic, ethnic and race group backgrounds. This book represents a major advance in examining such educational problems. From an analysis of international investigations of family and school influences, a context theory of students' school outcomes is developed. This work brings together wonderful summaries of research and adds new insights from the author's own investigations. One of its substantial attributes is that it integrates qualitative and quantitative research orientations and methodologies, which is a major step forward in educational and social science research. A set of family and school measures is included that might be used by researchers and students as they examine the context theory and by educators involved in school reform programs. This book will have a great appeal not only for students and researchers in educational fields but also for scholars in many other social science disciplines.
