CORN CHRONICLES

THE JOURNEY FROM PLATE TO POOP

How the Digestive System Works

The digestive system is a complex of organs that work together to break down food into nutrients that the body can use. It starts in the mouth, where food is chewed and mixed with saliva. The food then travels down the esophagus to the stomach, where it is broken down into smaller pieces. From the stomach, the food moves into the small intestine, where most of the nutrients are absorbed. The remaining waste moves into the large intestine, where water is absorbed and the waste is prepared for elimination.

Breaking Down is Hard to Do

While the digestive system is designed to break down food, it can sometimes have trouble. For example, if you eat too much food or eat food that is hard to digest, you might experience indigestion or heartburn. These are signs that your digestive system is having a hard time breaking down the food. To avoid these problems, it's important to eat a healthy diet and not overeat.

Let's Process This

Now that you know how the digestive system works, you can make better choices about what you eat. Eating a healthy diet with plenty of fruits, vegetables, and whole grains can help keep your digestive system working properly. And remember, it's always important to listen to your body and eat when you're hungry.
