My Grandma Brad was the last person to arrive at my graduation party, and she brought my cousin Ethan, my cousin Jack, and my Aunt Jen, as well as bringing her famous sausage and potatoes, and beans. After a while, it was time for us to eat the amazing food that everyone made. I was very happy when it was time to eat because of the pleasant aroma that built up in the building from all the food. I made sure to try a bit of everything except the beans because I don't really care for beans. The first thing I tried was my mom's pulled

Candidate Without a Prayer Herb Silverman, 2012-03-31 Sōseki John Nathan, 2018-05-15

Natsume Sōseki (1867-1916) was the father of the modern novel in Japan, chronicling the plight of bourgeois characters caught between familiar modes of living and the onslaught of Western values and conventions. Yet even though generations of Japanese high school students have been expected to memorize passages from his novels, and he is routinely voted the most important Japanese writer in national polls, he remains less familiar to Western readers than authors such as Kawabata, Tanizaki, and Mishima. In this biography John Nathan provides a lucid and vivid account of a great writer laboring to create a remarkably original oeuvre in spite of the physical and mental illness that plagued him all his life. He traces Sōseki's complex and contradictory character, offering rigorous close readings of Sōseki's groundbreaking experiments with narrative strategies, irony, and multiple points of view, as well as recounting excruciating hospital stays and recurrent attacks of paranoid delusion. Drawing on previously untranslated letters and diaries, published reminiscences, and passages from Sōseki's fiction, Nathan renders intimate scenes of the writer's life and distills a portrait of a tormented yet unflaggingly original author. The first full-length study of Sōseki in fifty years, Nathan's biography elevates Sōseki to his rightful place as a great synthesizer of literary traditions and a brilliant chronicler of universal experience, who no less than his Western contemporaries anticipated the modernism of the twentieth century.
