The SketchUp window is divided into three main areas: the SketchUp window, the Component window, and the Modeling toolbar. The SketchUp window is the main workspace for creating and editing 3D models. The Component window is used to manage the components of your model. The Modeling toolbar is used to create and edit 3D models.

In addition to the five main windows, SketchUp also includes several other windows, such as the Component window that's open in Figure 1-1. You can open and close these as needed by using the Window menu. With the tools in these windows, you'll apply color and shading to your models, select prefabricated components, add shadows and lighting effects, and export your project.

The View menu has items in the SketchUp window that you can show or hide, including things like the drawing guides, wire frame, perspective mode, and view different models. If you're looking for tools that change your view of the SketchUp window, such as a 3D or 2D view, look under the View menu.
