

Introduction: This is a very basic lab that helps clarify the concepts of diffusion and osmosis. Diffusion is the tendency for molecules to spread out evenly into the available space. Changes in the diffusion of water across a selectively permeable membrane. Osmosis occurs with the solvent being the electrolyte (usually of water and glycerol base). Other "solvent" molecules (usually those the solute). osmosis is the biological event and spreading an important understanding of diffusion and osmosis.

Purpose: To show the diffusion of water across the membrane through an increase of mass and size.

Hypothesis: The growing test will become heavier and enlarged approximately twice the original size.

Materials:
 1. Growing test
 2. Plastic bag
 3. Piece of glass wrap
 4. Water
 5. Sugar
 6. 20 ml of water

Methods:
 1. Take your growing test and make various measurements including length, height and width. Then your growing test's mass in grams.
 2. Place the growing test in the plastic bag and then fill it with approximately 20 ml of water (about 100% of the 20 ml of water) with glass wrap so that no water can escape.
 3. Place the growing test in a clear area for the water that has been put in the growing test.
 4. After 24 hours, remove the water and growing test from the plastic bag (placed up) with the growing test.
 5. Measure the change from the initial size of the growing test to the current size.

Results:

	Original Growing Test	Growing Test after 24 hours in water	1 Sample
Length	11.4 cm	11.4 cm	11.4 cm
Width	1 cm	1.2 cm	1.2 cm
Height	11.4 cm	1.2 cm	1.2 cm
Mass	1.2 gm	1.2 gm	1.2 gm

Brain-powered Science Thomas O'Brien, 2010 How can a long metal needle pass through a balloon without popping it How can water flow at very different rates through two identical funnels How can a stick placed on a table under several sheets of newspaper and extended over the edge of a table snap when quickly struck without lifting or tearing the paper Author Thomas O'Brien takes these and 30 more science inquiry activities to a higher level in this book for educators who love to surprise and challenge their students with unanticipated results Using experiments based on the science of a discrepant event an experiment or demonstration in which the outcome is not what students expect O'Brien shows how learners can be motivated to reconsider their preconceived notions and think more closely about what has actually occurred and the underlying scientific explanations What makes this volume more valuable than a mere activity book is the addition of a science education component to the extensive science content found in each activity Each discrepant event is shown to be analogous to a pedagogical principle Speaking directly to teachers O'Brien writes Your participation as teacher as learner experimenter rather than simply passive reader in these minds on activities will lead you to question and help you to revise your implicit assumptions about the nature of science teaching and learning At the same time you will develop expertise with activities that you can use with your own students The dual purpose activities thus allow you to unlock two doors with one key the doors to your own learning and to your students learning The detailed analogies between the activities and science learning make the book an ideal resource for middle and high school teachers science teacher educators and their preservice students and professional development specialists alike This thorough and thought provoking text includes more than 200 up to date internet resources as well as extensions to each of the physical science biology and chemistry activities bringing the total number of inquiry activities to nearly 120 Most important the author reminds teachers that the study of science is full of surprises and should be both meaningful and fun for students
