Wilson, 2021-10-20 Museums and the Act of Witnessing examines how representations of traumatic histories and the legacies of the twentieth century in museums and heritage sites across the world shape political social and cultural identities Drawing on an interdisciplinary analysis of a variety of museum exhibitions around the globe the book demonstrates how the narrative of witnessing has shaped representation of war genocide repression and violence Revealing that this form of presentation is inherently Western in its origins and nature Wilson goes on to argue that witnessing the past is to colonise the future as we project a certain view of the events of the past onto the present Detailing the character content and meanings of representation that focus on the traumatic events of the twentieth century the book demonstrates the way in which visitors are cast as witnesses and questions what the true purpose of witnessing really is Museums and the Act of Witnessing draws attention to the fact that we have inherited a distinct and often limited mode of seeing the past and considers how we can more effectively engage with the past in the present The book will be of interest to academics and students engaged in the study of museums history sociology conflict politics and memory

Books and Pamphlets, Including Serials and Contributions to Periodicals Library of Congress. Copyright Office, 1965 Digital Soil Mapping with Limited Data Alfred E. Hartemink, Alex B. McBratney, Maria de Lourdes Mendonça-Santos, 2008-07-11 Significant technological advances have been few and far between in the past approximately one hundred years of soil survey activities Perhaps one of the most innovative techniques in the history of soil survey was the introduction of aerial photographs as base maps for land mapping which replaced the conventional base map laboriously prepared by planimeter and alidade Such a relatively simple idea by today's standards revolutionized soil surveys by vastly increasing the accuracy and efficiency. Yet even this innovative approach did not gain universal acceptance immediately and was hampered by a lack of aerial coverage of the world, funds to cover the costs, and in some cases a reluctance by some soil mappers and cartographers to change Digital Soil Mapping (DSM) which is already being used and tested by groups of dedicated and innovative pedologists. It is perhaps the next great advancement in delivering soil survey information. However, like many new technologies, it too has yet to gain universal acceptance and is hampered by ignorance on the part of some pedologists and other scientists. DSM is a spatial soil information system created by numerical models that account for the spatial and temporal variations of soil properties based on soil formation and related environmental variables.
