UNIT 3: CULTURAL PATTERNS AND PROCESSES

Cultural landscapes are combinations of physical features, agricultural and industrial practices, religious and linguistic characteristics, evidence of permanent settlements, and other expressions of culture (including traditional and modern architecture and land use patterns).

Attitudes toward ethnicity and gender, including the role of women in the workforce, ethnic neighborhoods, and religious communities and trends help shape the use of space in a given way.

- Cultural landscapes sometimes:
 - Reflect a region's history
 - Contribute to a region's identity
 - Reflect a region's physical features
- Elements of culture in the human landscape:
 - Physical features: climate, terrain, and water, including their effects on agriculture and settlement patterns
 - Human features: the location of cities, agriculture, language, religion, ethnicity, and culture
 - Cultural features: the location of cities, agriculture, language, religion, ethnicity, and culture
- Ethnic neighborhoods, trends that a place can be associated with different groups of people, and trends that a place can be associated with different groups of people.

Language, ethnicity, and religion contribute to a sense of place, which is the global cultural landscape.

Language, ethnicity, and religion are factors creating centrifugal and centripetal forces.

- Centrifugal forces that pull people apart:
 - Ethnic neighborhoods, trends that a place can be associated with different groups of people
- Centripetal forces that pull people together:
 - Ethnic neighborhoods, trends that a place can be associated with different groups of people

Language	Religion	Ethnicity
• Spanish: 40% of the population	• Catholic: 80% of the population	• Hispanic: 15% of the population
• English: 35% of the population	• Protestant: 15% of the population	• African American: 12% of the population
• French: 10% of the population	• Jewish: 2% of the population	• Asian American: 5% of the population
• German: 5% of the population	• Muslim: 1% of the population	• Native American: 1% of the population

Religion and immigration - including immigration, assimilation, and religious expression - are types of differences.

Differences among people by which a nation's culture is shaped.

- Religion: different groups of people have different beliefs and practices.
- Immigration: different groups of people have different beliefs and practices.
- Assimilation: different groups of people have different beliefs and practices.
- Religious expression: different groups of people have different beliefs and practices.

Interactions between and among cultural traits and larger global forces can lead to new forms of cultural expression, for example, globalization and digital media.

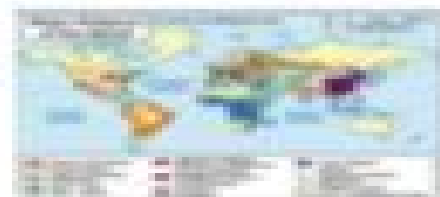

- Globalization: the process by which economic and cultural forces are integrated across the world.
- Digital media: the use of digital technology to create and share information.

Globalization, immigration, and media helped to shape patterns and practices of culture.

- Globalization: the process by which economic and cultural forces are integrated across the world.
- Immigration: the process by which people move from one country to another.
- Media: the use of digital technology to create and share information.
