Control and Nonlinear Dynamics on Energy Conversion Systems Herbert Ho-Ching Iu, Abdelali El Aroudi, 2019-07-01 The ever increasing need for higher efficiency smaller size and lower cost make the analysis understanding and design of energy conversion systems extremely important interesting and even imperative One of the most neglected features in the study of such systems is the effect of the inherent nonlinearities on the stability of the system Due to these nonlinearities these devices may exhibit undesirable and complex dynamics which are the focus of many researchers Even though a lot of research has taken place in this area during the last 20 years it is still an active research topic for mainstream power engineers This research has demonstrated that these systems can become unstable with a direct result in increased losses extra subharmonics and even uncontrollability unobservability The detailed study of these systems can help in the design of smaller lighter and less expensive converters that are particularly important in emerging areas of research like electric vehicles smart grids renewable energy sources and others The aim of this Special Issue is to cover control and nonlinear aspects of instabilities in different energy conversion systems theoretical analysis modelling and practical solutions for such emerging applications In this Special Issue we present novel research works in different areas of the control and nonlinear dynamics of energy conversion systems

The Proprotein Convertases Abdel-Majid Khatib, 2013-02-01 Proprotein convertases PCs are a family of proteases including PC1 PC2 Furin PC4 PACE4 PC5 and PC7 These enzymes are involved in the maturation of many precursor proteins involved in the process of tumorigenesis and metastasis Since their discovery PCs were suggested as potential targets for anti cancer therapy and their activity was found to directly affect tumor cell proliferation migration invasion and the malignant phenotypes of tumor cells Here we discuss a number of previous and recent findings on the PCs features their implication in the regulation of multiple cellular functions that impact on the invasive metastatic potential of cancer cells and their clinical relevance in cancer patients Among the substrates of the proprotein convertases various growth factors their receptors adhesion molecules and proteases were identified The PCs are inhibited by endogenous and exogenous inhibitors To date only pro7B2 a specific chaperone of PC2 and the granine like precursor of neuroendocrine protein proSAAS a selective ligand of PC1 have been identified as endogenous inhibitors of the PCs found in the regulated pathway However only PCs prosegments several bioengineered inhibitors peptides and non peptide compounds were found to inhibit the activity of the PCs found in the secretory pathway
