refusals of dominant firms to give access data on online platforms such as search engines social networks and e commerce platforms commonly referred to as the gatekeepers of the Internet The question arises whether the denial of a dominant firm to grant competitors access to its data could constitute a refusal to deal and lead to competition law liability under the so called essential facilities doctrine according to which firms need access to shared knowledge in order to be able to compete A possible duty to share data with rivals also brings to the forefront the interaction of competition law with data protection legislation considering that the required information may include personal data of individuals Building on the refusal to deal concept and using a multidisciplinary approach the analysis covers such issues and topics as the following data portability interoperability data as a competitive advantage or entry barrier in digital markets market definition and dominance with respect to data disruptive versus sustaining innovation role of intellectual property regimes economic trade off in essential facilities cases relationship of competition enforcement with data protection law and data related competition concerns in merger cases The author draws on a wealth of relevant material including EU and US decision making practice case law and policy documents as well as economic and empirical literature on the link between competition and innovation The book concludes with a proposed framework for the application of the essential facilities doctrine to potential forms of abuse of dominance relating to data In addition it makes suggestions as to how data protection interests can be integrated into competition policy An invaluable contribution to ongoing academic and policy discussions about how data related competition concerns should be addressed under competition law the analysis clearly demonstrates how existing competition tools for market definition and assessment of dominance can be applied to online platforms It will be of immeasurable value to the many jurists business persons and academics concerned with this very timely subject

The Venture Alchemists Rob Lalka, 2024-05-14 We once idolized tech entrepreneurs for creating innovations that seemed like modern miracles Yet our faith has been shattered We now blame them for spreading lies breaking laws and causing chaos Yesterday s Silicon Valley darlings have become today s Big Tech villains Which is it Are they superheroes or scoundrels Or is it more complicated some blend of both In The Venture Alchemists Rob Lalka demystifies how tech entrepreneurs built empires that made trillions Meta started as a cruel Halloween prank Alphabet began as a master s thesis that warned against corporate deception and Palantir came from a campus controversy over hateful speech These largely forgotten origin stories show how ordinary fears and youthful ambitions shaped their ventures making each tech tale relatable both wonderfully and tragically human Readers learn about the adversities tech entrepreneurs overcame the troubling tradeoffs they made and the tremendous power they now wield Using leaked documents and previously unpublished archival material Lalka takes readers inside Big Tech s worst exploitations and abuses alongside many good intentions and moral compromises But this story remains unfinished and The Venture Alchemists ultimately offers hope from the people who decades ago warned about the risks of the emerging Internet Their insights illuminate a path toward more responsible innovations so that technologies aren t dangerous weapons but
