Fisheries Management Geoffrey

Waugh,2019-03-04 Among the problems of the modern fisheries industry is the persistent trend toward the severe depletion of fish stocks resulting in low catch rates and poor economic returns along with unnecessary accumulations of capital investments Dr Waugh argues that these problems call for effective management procedures based on bioeconomic modelling which integrates the population dynamics of fish resources with the economic processes of harvesting and marketing Assessing developments in bioeconomic theory Dr Waugh discusses why recent advances have not been fully translated into improvements in the management of marine fisheries He cites the difficulties of reaching a consensus concerning suitable objectives for fisheries management as well as the problems of designing a regulatory framework to improve the operation of the industry To illustrate the utility of bioeconomic modelling Dr Waugh presents case studies of two Australian fisheries A dynamic stochastic numeric model is developed for the Exmouth Gulf Prawn Fishery to provide insights into the optimal exploitation of a yearly resource where fluctuations in recruitment natural mortality and catchability are important The study of the New South Wales Abalone Fishery highlights the difficulties of obtaining the necessary overview of a fishery and the problems in collecting the data required for modelling and management Origins Susan Prescott,2015 Prevention is the ultimate approach to reducing the burden of all kinds of disease and the greatest potential for success lies in early life What happens during early critical periods of life can determine our longevity and our risk of disease decades later In other words how well we start life will determine how well we finish it Dr Susan Prescott a pediatrician internationally recognised for her work in disease prevention through healthier lifestyles takes us on a journey of health beginning from the first moments of life revealing how adverse conditions during the important stages of our development can have a far more profound effect on our body structures functions and even our developing behaviours She draws on the latest research to explain how early life conditions determine our biological reserve our capacity to deal with life s challenges and how many of the consequences may not appear until much later in life Covering a broad range of topics including obesity diabetes heart disease cancer allergy arthritis and mental health she shows how improving conditions in early life is critical for long term health and longevity and in prevention of adverse conditions Page 4 of cover

Atheism, Fundamentalism and the Protestant Reformation Liam Jerrold Fraser, 2018-07-19 In this study of new atheism and religious fundamentalism this book advances two provocative and surprising arguments Liam Jerrold Fraser argues that atheism and Protestant fundamentalism in Britain and America share a common historical origin in the English Reformation and the crisis of authority inaugurated by the Reformers This common origin generated two presuppositions crucial for both movements a literalist understanding of scripture and a disruptive understanding of divine activity in nature Through an analysis of contemporary new atheist and Protestant fundamentalist texts Fraser shows that these presuppositions continue to structure both groups and support a range of shared biblical scientific and theological beliefs Their common historical and intellectual structure ensures that new atheism and Protestant fundamentalism while on the surface irreconcilably opposed share a secret sympathy with one another yet one which leaves them unstable inconsistent and unsustainable
