UNIT 3: CULTURAL PATTERNS AND PROCESSES

Cultural landscapes are combinations of physical features, agricultural and industrial practices, religious and linguistic characteristics, evidence of human occupation, and other components of culture (including traditional and modern architecture and land use patterns).

Attitudes toward ethnicity and gender, including the role of women in the workforce, ethnic neighborhoods, and religious communities and trends help shape the use of space in a given way.

- Cultural landscapes patterns
 - Built environment
 - Evidence of human activity: human and natural cultural environment
 - The built environment on the physical environment by the natural processes
- Components of culture in the cultural landscape
 - Physical features: natural features and built environment that reflect human activity
 - Human and natural features
 - Human features: the human-made features, including buildings, roads, and other human-made features
 - Natural features: natural features, including mountains, rivers, and other natural features
 - Cultural features: human-made features that reflect human activity, including buildings, roads, and other human-made features
- Ethnic neighborhoods, trends that a place can be associated to different groups of people, and trends that a place can be associated to different groups of people, and trends that a place can be associated to different groups of people

Language, ethnicity and identity contribute to a sense of place, which is the global cultural landscape.

Language, ethnicity and religion are factors creating centrifugal and centripetal forces.

- Centrifugal forces that pull people apart
 - Ethnic neighborhoods, trends that a place can be associated to different groups of people, and trends that a place can be associated to different groups of people
- Centripetal forces that pull people together
 - Ethnic neighborhoods, trends that a place can be associated to different groups of people, and trends that a place can be associated to different groups of people

Language	Religion	Ethnicity
• Spanish: 40% of the population	• Catholic: 80% of the population	• Hispanic: 15% of the population
• English: 35% of the population	• Protestant: 15% of the population	• African American: 12% of the population
• French: 10% of the population	• Jewish: 2% of the population	• Asian American: 5% of the population
• German: 5% of the population	• Muslim: 1% of the population	• Native American: 1% of the population
• Italian: 5% of the population	• Hindu: 1% of the population	• Pacific Islander: 1% of the population

Religion and immigration - including religious, geographical, and ethnic immigration - are types of differences.

Differences among people by which a culture can be defined.

- Religious differences: people of one religion through the physical environment of people from one place to another
- Ethnic differences
 - Ethnic differences: people of one ethnicity through the physical environment of people from one place to another
- Geographic differences: people of one geography through the physical environment of people from one place to another
- Ethnic differences: people of one ethnicity through the physical environment of people from one place to another
- Religious differences: people of one religion through the physical environment of people from one place to another

Interactions between and among cultural traits and larger global forces can lead to new forms of cultural expression, for example, globalization and digital media.

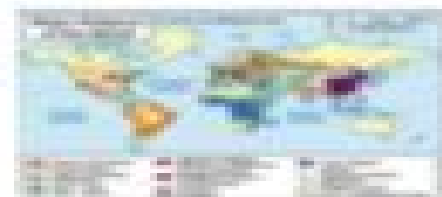

- Globalization: the process by which economic, cultural, and other aspects of different cultures are becoming more interconnected
- Digital media: the use of digital technology to create and share information

Globalization, immigration and trade helped to shape patterns and practices of culture.

- Globalization: the process by which economic, cultural, and other aspects of different cultures are becoming more interconnected
- Immigration: the movement of people from one place to another
- Trade: the exchange of goods and services between different places

- Globalization: the process by which economic, cultural, and other aspects of different cultures are becoming more interconnected
