10. Answer: C The patient is exhibiting signs of a urinary tract infection (UTI), which is a common complication of catheterization. The patient's symptoms include a cloudy, yellowish urine, a strong odor, and a burning sensation during urination. The patient's vital signs are stable, and there are no signs of systemic infection. The most appropriate action is to change the catheter and the collection bag, as this is the most likely cause of the infection. The other options are incorrect: (A) is incorrect because the patient is not showing signs of a systemic infection; (B) is incorrect because the patient is not showing signs of a urinary tract infection; (D) is incorrect because the patient is not showing signs of a urinary tract infection.
