The New Quest for Paul and His Reading of the Old Testament Timo Laato, Bror Erickson, 2023-06-27 The author is known as a strong opponent of the so called New Perspective on Paul In this book he seeks to move beyond that debate and open new vistas in Pauline research There is a need for much revision The author first dives in to a detailed exegetical study of 2 Corinthians 3 a chapter that has a reputation of being an exegetical nightmare He examines the interpretational problems associated with the opposition between the letter that kills and the Spirit that gives life Fresh insights emerge Ultimately the whole issue turns on the question whether to understand the Old Testament according to the literal letteral or literal spiritual sense As a consequence Paul breaks up with Judaism and pulls down the works of the law since he competes against the view of observing the Torah in flesh and according to the literal letteral meaning of the text He regards such a religious pursuit as the worst form of human self righteousness and self praise despite the serious efforts to true piety On the other hand Christians have undergone a transformation in terms of regeneration resurrection or revitalization The Spirit gives them life He reigns in them Hence Christians do fulfill the whole Mosaic law Yet they fulfill it in Spirit and not in flesh in other words according to the literal spiritual and not literal letteral sense of Scripture As a consequence they do not bolster their self righteousness and self praise To corroborate his thesis the author draws on similar wordings in other Pauline letters and several passages in the Old Testament from Exodus Jeremiah and Ezekiel The author concludes that the New Perspective on Paul has run its course A New Quest for Paul is needed Therefore this book is needed yourself firmly on track with the clear aerial view offered in The Bible from 30 000 Feet Introduction to Biblical Interpretation (Foundations for Spirit-Filled Christianity) Jacqueline Grey, Paul W. Lewis, 2024-09-24 This introduction to biblical interpretation expands the interpretive task to encompass both comprehension of the Bible's content and active participation in God's redemptive plan. The authors help readers engage with the beauty of God's Word and read it holistically for their intellectual and spiritual growth. They address the nature of interpretation, emphasize the Holy Spirit's role in the production, interpretation, and application of the Bible as a communication of the triune God, and explore the Bible's genres and historical contexts through the lens of God's redemptive story. They also provide principles and accessible guidelines for biblical interpretation in global contexts, including a simple outline for beginning students to follow as they start interpreting and applying Scripture. Above all, the authors emphasize the transformative nature of reading Scripture. This series reflects the changing face of global Christianity. Series volumes highlight themes of interest to Pentecostal Charismatic students; however, the books are respectful and inclusive of a variety of church traditions. Series editors are Jerry Ireland, Paul W. Lewis, and Frank D. Macchia.

"Too Much to Grasp" Andrea D. Saner, 2015-09-15 Few phrases in Scripture have occasioned as much discussion as has the I am who I am of Exodus 3:14. What does this phrase mean? How does it relate to the divine name YHWH? Is it an answer to Moses' question in v. 13 or an evasion of an answer? The trend in late nineteenth and twentieth century scholarly interpretations of this verse was to superimpose later Christian interpretations which built on Greek and Latin translations on the Hebrew text. According to such views, the text presents an etymology of the divine name that suggests God's active presence with Israel or what God will accomplish for Israel; the text does not address the nature or being of God. However, this trend presents challenges to theological interpretation which seeks to consider critically the value pre-modern Christian readings have for faithful appropriations of Scripture today. In Too Much to Grasp, Exodus 3:13-15 and the Reality of God, Andrea Saner argues for an alternative way forward for twenty-first century readings of the passage, using Augustine of Hippo as representative of the misunderstood interpretive tradition. Read within the literary contexts of the received form of the book of Exodus and the Pentateuch as a whole, the literal sense of Exodus 3:13-15 addresses both who God is as well as God's action. The I am who I am of v. 14a expresses indefiniteness while God reveals himself as YHWH and offers this name for the Israelites to call upon him. God is not exhausted by this revelation but rather remains beyond human comprehension and control.

Foretaste of the Future Dean Flemming, 2022-08-23 For many Christians, the book of Revelation is a confusing coded screenplay for the end times. But when we read Revelation as focused on the future, we miss what it says about what God is doing in the world now. Dean Flemming mines this untapped resource by introducing a missional reading that draws on a variety of cultural perspectives.

Argument and Persuasion in Descartes' Meditations David Cunning, 2010-08-03 Descartes' Meditations on First Philosophy has proven to be not only one of the canonical texts of Western philosophy but also the site of a great deal of interpretive activity in scholarship on the history of early modern philosophy over the last two decades David Cunning's monograph proposes a new interpretation which is that from beginning to end the reasoning of the Meditations is the first person reasoning of a thinker who starts from a confused non Cartesian paradigm and moves slowly and awkwardly toward a grasp of just a few of the central theses of Descartes' system. The meditator of the Meditations is not a full blown Cartesian at the start or middle or even the end of inquiry and accordingly the Meditations is riddled with confusions throughout. Cunning argues that Descartes is trying to capture the kind of reasoning that a non Cartesian would have to engage in to make the relevant epistemic progress and that the Meditations rhetorically models that reasoning. He proposes that Descartes is reflecting on what happens in philosophical inquiry: we are unclear about something we roam about using our existing concepts and intuitions; we abandon or revise some of these and then eventually we come to see a result as clear that we did not see as clear before. Thus Cunning's fundamental insight is that Descartes is a teacher and the reader a student. With that reading in mind, a significant number of the interpretive problems that arise in the Descartes literature dissolve when we make a distinction between the Cartesian and non Cartesian elements of the Meditations and a better understanding of surrounding texts is achieved as well. This important volume will be of great interest to scholars of early modern philosophy.
