Hurricane Tracking Guide:

Aware ,2001 Hurricanes, Unleashing Nature's Fury ,2001 Hurricanes Paul V. Kislow,2008 A hurricane is a tropical storm with winds that have reached a constant speed of 74 miles per hour or more Hurricane winds blow in a large spiral around a relative calm centre known as the eye The eye is generally 20 to 30 miles wide and the storm may extend outward 400 miles As a hurricane approaches the skies will begin to darken and winds will grow in strength As a hurricane nears land it can bring torrential rains high winds and storm surges A single hurricane can last for more than 2 weeks over open waters and can run a path across the entire length of the eastern seaboard August and September are peak months during the hurricane season that lasts from 1 June to 30 November This book presents the facts and history of hurricanes

Tracking Truth Sherrilyn Roush, 2005-11-10

Tracking Truth presents a unified treatment of knowledge evidence and epistemological realism and anti realism about scientific theories A wide range of knowledge related phenomena especially but not only in science strongly favour the idea of tracking as the key to what makes something knowledge A subject who tracks the truth an idea first formulated by Robert Nozick has the ability to follow the truth through time and changing circumstances Epistemologists rightly concluded that Nozick's theory was not viable but a simple revision of that view is not only viable but superior to other current views In this new tracking account of knowledge in contrast to the old view knowledge has the property of closure under known implication and troublesome counterfactuals are replaced with well defined conditional probability statements Of particular interest are the new view's treatment of skepticism reflective knowledge lottery propositions knowledge of logical truth and the question why knowledge is power in the Baconian sense Ideally evidence indicates a hypothesis and discriminates it from other possible hypotheses This is the idea behind a tracking view of evidence and Sherrilyn Roush provides a defence of a confirmation theory based on the Likelihood Ratio The accounts of knowledge and evidence she offers provide a deep and seamless explanation of why having better evidence makes one more likely to have knowledge Roush approaches the question of epistemological realism about scientific theories through the question what is required for evidence and rejects both traditional realist and traditional anti realist positions in favour of a new position which evaluates realist claims in a piecemeal fashion according to a general standard of evidence The results show that while anti realists were immodest in declaring a priori what science could not do realists were excessively sanguine about how far our actual evidence has so far taken us

The Natures of Maps Denis Wood, John Fels, 2008 The authors demonstrate that maps of the natural physical world are just as culturally and socially constructed as any map of property or territory
