Responding to Learner Diversity and Learning Difficulties Dennis Conrad, Stacey Blackman, 2018-10-01 Caribbean Discourse in Inclusive Education Volume II Responding to Learner Diversity and Learner Difficulties shares selected critical reflections and recommendations on the way educational communities respond to student diversity and difficulties learning These contexts include the Caribbean the Diaspora and beyond Authors explore issues and strategies for realizing and sustaining the agenda of education for all within primarily but not limited to the Caribbean While the authors are aware of the ongoing debate between the terms education for all and inclusive education we use these terms interchangeably We hold the position that inclusive education is about commitment to removing barriers to optimum learning for all learners regardless of age ability ethnicity gender geography race religion sexual orientation or other differences Responding to Learner Diversity and Difficulties extend the discourse to include stakeholders committed to sharing their experiences and strategies for overcoming barriers to inclusive education This second volume presents research that examines how teachers can respond to students with disabilities and difficulties learning teach challenging curriculum content in mathematics and literacy build citizenship through student voice improve teacher practice via co teaching and critical reflection promote inclusive practice through leadership and advocacy It can be used as a core text or companion reader for students at the undergraduate and graduate levels lecturers practitioners researchers and policy makers

The Anthropology of Education Policy Angelina E. Castagno, Teresa McCarty, 2017-07-06 Advancing a rapidly growing field of social science inquiry the anthropology of policy this volume extends and solidifies this body of work focusing on education policy Its goal is to examine timely issues in education policy from a critical anthropological ethnographic and comparative perspective and through this to theorize new ways of understanding how policy does its work At the center is a commitment to an engaged anthropology of education policy that uses anthropological knowledge to imagine and foster more equitable and just forms of schooling The authors examine the ways in which education policy processes create reflect and contest regimes of knowledge and power sorting and stratifying people ideas and resources in particular ways In contrast to conventional analyses of policy as text based dictated linear and rational an anthropological perspective positions policy at the interface of top down bottom up and meso level processes and as de facto and de jure Demonstrating how education policy operates as a social cultural and deeply ideological process on the ground each chapter clearly delineates the implications of these understandings for educational access opportunity and equity Providing a single go to source on the disciplinary history theoretical framework methodology and empirical applications of the anthropology of education policy across a range of education topics policy debates and settings the book updates and expands on seminal works in the field carving out an important niche in anthropological studies of public policy

explores what is often overlooked in policy debates about the education of English language learners how the day to day dynamics of the classroom are affected by high stakes testing and the pressures students and teachers experience and internalize as a result The author presents and analyzes classroom observations student work and test scores as well as interviews with students and teachers A disturbing picture of today's overtested public school classroom emerges from the events and practices described in this book While hard to believe all the depictions presented took place in a real elementary school classroom and reflect the current culture of extreme accountability Overtested not only describes the flaws in our current accountability system but it also provides real world solutions that can have an immediate and positive effect at the classroom state and national level Chapters address key debates such as how to measure proficiency the validity of various language assessment tools the overuse of assessment and the risks and benefits of teaching language arts to English language learners via mandated structured curricula Jessica Zacher Pandya is an Associate Professor in the Departments of Teacher Education and Liberal Studies at California State University Long Beach This book tells an important tale that cannot be conveyed by numbers and tables It is important information for teachers for those who depend on employ and train teachers and for those who create the policies under which teachers are required to operate From the Foreword by Robert Rueda University of Southern California author of The 3 Dimensions of Improving Student Performance Finding the Right Solutions to the Right Problems How many more dire tales of schooling for assessment must be told before we realize that teaching and testing are not the same and that scores on standardized multiple choice achievement tests are a sorry substitute for an engaging learning environment In this book Jessica Zacher Pandya reaches across ideological and institutional borders to offer reasonable pragmatic solutions for change Linda Valli Jeffrey David Mullan Professor of Teacher Education Professional Development College of Education University of Maryland Zacher Pandya's invaluable book exposes the injustices and absurdities of our high stakes accountability era Just as importantly it limns a more academically robust and culturally relevant instructional vision for English language learners Gerald Campano University of Pennsylvania
