Mathematics Paper 1 June 2014 Grade 1:

Mathematics and Transition to School Bob Perry, Amy MacDonald, Ann Gervasoni, 2015-01-09 This edited book brings together for the first time an international collection of work focused on two important aspects of any young child's life learning mathematics and starting primary or elementary school The chapters take a variety of perspectives and integrate these two components in sometimes explicit and sometimes more subtle ways The key issues and themes explored in this book are the mathematical and other strengths that all participants in the transition to school bring to this period of a child's life the opportunities provided by transition to school for young children's mathematics learning the importance of partnerships among adults and among adults and children for effective school transitions and mathematics learning and teaching the critical impact of expectations on their mathematics learning as children start school the importance of providing children with meaningful challenging and relevant mathematical experiences throughout transition to school the entitlement of children and educators to experience assessment and instructional pedagogies that match the strengths of the learners and the teachers the importance for the aspirations of children families communities educators and educational organisations to be recognised as legitimate and key determinants of actions experiences and successes in both transition to school and mathematics learning and the belief that young children are powerful mathematics learners who can demonstrate this power as they start school In each chapter authors reflect on their work in the area of mathematics and transition to school place that work within the overall context of research in these fields predict the trajectory of this work in the future and consider the implications of the work both theoretically and practically

Executive Function and Education

Mariëtte Huizinga, Dieter Baeyens, Jacob A. Burack, 2018-09-21 Executive function is an umbrella term for various cognitive processes that are central to goal directed behavior thoughts and emotions These processes are especially important in novel or demanding situations which require a rapid and flexible adjustment of behavior to the changing demands of the environment The development of executive function relies on the maturation of associated brain regions as well as on stimulation in the child's social contexts especially the home and school Over the past decade the term executive function has become a buzzword in the field of education as both researchers and educators underscore the importance of skills like goal setting planning and organizing in academic success Accordingly in initiating this Research Topic and eBook our goal was to provide a forum for state of the art theoretical and empirical work on this that both facilitates communication among researchers from diverse fields and provides a theoretically sound source of information for educators The contributors to this volume who hail from several different countries in Europe and North America have certainly accomplished this goal in their nuanced and cutting edge depictions of the complex links among various executive function components and educational success

Regulation Karen Yeung,Martin Lodge,2019-09-12 As the power and sophistication of of big data and predictive analytics has continued to expand so too has policy and public concern about the use of algorithms in contemporary life This is hardly surprising given our increasing reliance on algorithms in daily life touching policy sectors from healthcare transport finance consumer retail manufacturing education and employment through to public service provision and the operation of the criminal justice system This has prompted concerns about the need and importance of holding algorithmic power to account yet it is far from clear that existing legal and other oversight mechanisms are up to the task This collection of essays edited by two leading regulatory governance scholars offers a critical exploration of algorithmic regulation understood both as a means for co ordinating and regulating social action and decision making as well as the need for institutional mechanisms through which the power of algorithms and algorithmic systems might themselves be regulated It offers a unique perspective that is likely to become a significant reference point for the ever growing debates about the power of algorithms in daily life in the worlds of research policy and practice The range of contributors are drawn from a broad range of disciplinary perspectives including law public administration applied philosophy data science and artificial intelligence Taken together they highlight the rise of algorithmic power the potential benefits and risks associated with this power the way in which Sheila Jasanoff s long standing claim that technology is politics has been thrown into sharp relief by the speed and scale at which algorithmic systems are proliferating and the urgent need for wider public debate and engagement of their underlying values and value trade offs the way in which they affect individual and collective decision making and action and effective and legitimate mechanisms by and through which algorithmic power is held to account CTET Success Master Maths &
