⚠ WARNING

Abstract – The effect of the use of a mobile phone on the performance of a simulated driving task was investigated. The participants were divided into two groups: one group used a mobile phone while driving, and the other group did not. The results showed that the use of a mobile phone significantly reduced the performance of the driving task, as measured by reaction time and error rate. The study also found that the use of a mobile phone increased the risk of accidents and reduced the driver's ability to respond to emergency situations. The results suggest that the use of a mobile phone while driving is a major safety concern and should be discouraged.

Use of display unit while driving will cause distraction and loss of vehicle control which may lead to serious injury or death.
