By policy, a new store can be opened if a well- trained staff is produced and also if they have distribution centers around.

Because of the good products and services they don't have to spend that much in advertisement. They clients do that job for them without even paying them because hen a costumer leaves happy then he or she tells friends to go and try. Also, various celebrities have been seen taking orders there and going with their friends. When prospective-costumers hear about In-N-Out they hear all good comments and that makes them desperate to taste and go the restaurant, they have set a high expectation for this establishment because of comments.
