Educational Policy Borrowing in China Charlene Tan, 2016-02-22 For over a decade Mainland China has been embarking on an ambitious nation wide education reform New Curriculum Reform for its basic education The reform reflects China's propensity to borrow selected educational policies from elsewhere particularly North America and Europe Chinese scholars have used a local proverb the West wind has overpowered the East wind to describe this phenomenon of looking West But what do we mean by educational policy borrowing from the West What are the educational policies in China's new curriculum reform that are perceived to be borrowed from the West To what extent have the borrowed educational policies in China's new curriculum reform been accepted modified and rejected by the various educational stakeholders How does culture influence the various educational stakeholders in China in interpreting and mediating educational policy borrowing from the West How do the findings of this study on China's education reform inform and add to the existing theories on and approaches to on cross cultural educational policy borrowing This book answers the above questions by critically discussing China's policy borrowing from the West through its current reform for primary and secondary education It presents the latest in depth research findings from a three year empirical study 2013 2015 with school principals teachers students and other educational stakeholders across China This study offers new insights into China's educational policy borrowing from the West and international implications on cross cultural educational transfer for academics policymakers and educators

Climate Change Education Chang Chew Hung, 2022-12-30 Climate change is complex and there is a need to educate our future generations so that they are able to deal with the plethora of information and views that they come into contact with in their lives This book inquires into what it means to teach and learn about climate change Now in its second edition Chang further explores what education for climate change entails discussing the concept of climate change education CCE itself how it is taught in schools and how public education is being carried out Featuring updated literature in a quickly advancing field the book defines CCE for the global citizen and looks at pedagogies supporting CCE It also identifies teachers as key stakeholders in climate change discourse how to improve teacher readiness on the topic and how teacher professional development can support successful implementation of CCE This book will be invaluable to climate change educators and can act as a reference resource for teachers education policymakers and public education agencies MYP - New Directions Jeff Thompson, Judith Fabian, Mary Hayden, 2016-06-01 The new IB Middle Years Programme MYP curriculum for 11 to 16 year olds came into effect in September 2014 and will strengthen the IB's continuum of learning. This edited collection will provide support for all those involved in the current period of preparation for implementation of the new programme. The chapters are written by experienced practitioners from a range of relevant standpoints about different aspects of the MYP. MYP New Directions examines the changes to the programme that have been introduced as well as those that are currently in progress and highlights challenges and opportunities for the future. Contributors: Judith Fabian, Conrad Hughes, Alexandra Holland, Lance King, Marjorie Lope, Patricia Villegas, Gareth Hegarty, Hege Myhre, Michael Huber, Oyindrilla Mukherjee, Anthony Hemmens and Gillian Ashworth.

A University Education David Willetts, 2017-11-17 Universities have a crucial role in the modern world. In England, entrance to universities is by nationwide competition, which means English universities have an exceptional influence on schools, a striking theme of the book. This important book first investigates the university as an institution and then tracks the individual on their journey to and through university. In A University Education, David Willetts presents a compelling case for the ongoing importance of the university both as one of the great institutions of modern society and as a transformational experience for the individual. The book also makes illuminating comparisons with higher education in other countries, especially the US and Germany. Drawing on his experience as UK Minister for Universities and Science from 2010 to 2014, the author offers a powerful account of the value of higher education and the case for more expansion. He covers controversial issues in which he was involved, from access for disadvantaged students to the introduction of 9,000 fees. The final section addresses some of the big questions for the future, such as the relationship between universities and business, especially in promoting innovation. He argues that the two great contemporary trends of globalisation and technological innovation will both change the university significantly. This is an authoritative account of English universities setting them for the first time in their new legal and regulatory framework.

Education for Sustainable Development Brian Chalkley, Martin Haigh, David Higgitt, 2013-09-13 In 2005, The United Nations launched its Decade of Education for Sustainable Development, which recognises that education, including Higher Education, is the key to the change in social attitudes that will be needed to protect the welfare of future generations. This involves helping learners to live as though the future matters and to achieve ecoliteracy. This includes the understanding that personal lifestyle decisions may have consequences ranging from climate change through loss of biodiversity to pollution and resource depletion that may permit environmental degradation on a planetary scale. It also involves helping them to develop the skills needed to cope with such challenges. This international collection of research papers and position statements from special issues of the Journal of Geography in Higher Education and Applied Environmental Education and Communication, written by many of the leading practitioners in the field, aims to provide resources and practical guidance for all seeking to promote and engage in education for a sustainable future. Rabindranath Tagore encouraged each learner to make their actions demonstrate a harmonious union between education and environment. David Orr argued that the world needs people who live well in their places to make the world both habitable and humane and that the main challenge for education is to help learners make their minds fit for life on Earth This book tries to chart a practical route towards these objectives This book was previously published as special issues of the Journal of Geography in Higher Education and Applied Environmental Education and Communication
