War Tourism Bertram M. Gordon, 2018-11-15 As German troops entered Paris following their victory in June 1940 the American journalist William L Shirer observed that they carried cameras and behaved as naive tourists One of the first things Hitler did after his victory was to tour occupied Paris where he was famously photographed in front of the Eiffel Tower Focusing on tourism by German personnel military and civil and French civilians during the war as well as war related memory tourism since War Tourism addresses the fundamental linkages between the two As Bertram M Gordon shows Germans toured occupied France by the thousands in groups organized by their army and guided by suggestions in magazines such as Der Deutsche Wegleiter für Paris The German Guide for Paris Despite the hardships imposed by war and occupation many French civilians continued to take holidays Facilitated by the Popular Front legislation of 1936 this solidified the practice of workers vacations leading to a postwar surge in tourism After the end of the war the phenomenon of memory tourism transformed sites such as the Maginot Line fortresses The influx of tourists with links either directly or indirectly to the war took hold and continues to play a significant economic role in Normandy and elsewhere As France moved from wartime to a postwar era of reconciliation and European Union memory tourism has held strong and exerts significant influence across the country

The Cultivation of Taste Christel Lane, 2014-02-14 After many decades if not centuries of neglect of fine food and high level restaurants in Britain we are seeing a massive explosion of interest in food cooking and dining out Christel Lane's book charts the process of this transformation and examines top contemporary restaurants and their chefs The Cultivation of Taste presents a comparative study of Michelin starred restaurants in Britain and Germany focusing on two countries without an indigenous haute cuisine but which nevertheless have developed internationally reputed fine dining sectors and comparing their development to the fine dining culture in France Written from a sociological perspective chefs are portrayed as part of a complex network in their relationships with their employees their customers gastronomic critics suppliers of food and even their financiers It will appeal to academics in the areas of economic and cultural sociology and those with an interest in small entrepreneurial firms and their work relations but also to all those who have an interest in fine dining restaurants and the chef patrons at the centre of them The book draws on a large number of interviews with renowned chefs diners and Michelin inspectors to provide an unprecedented insight into what goes on in Michelin starred restaurants what makes their chefs tick intrigues their critics and beguiles or annoys their customers Restaurants are viewed not simply as businesses but as cultural enterprises that shape our taste in food ambience and sociality

Emotion in Motion Mike Robinson, David Picard, 2016-05-06 What happens when tourists scream with fear shout with anger and frustration weep with joy and delight or even faint in the face of revealed beauty How can certain sites affect some tourists so deeply that they require hospitalisation and psychiatric treatment What are the inner contours of tourist experience and how does it relate to specific emotional cultures What are the consequences of the emotional cultures of tourists upon destinations How are differences in emotional culture mobilized and played out in the transnational contact zones of international tourism While many books have engaged with the structural frames of tourist practice and experience this is the first to deal with the emotional dimensions of tourism travel and contact and the ways in which they can transform tourists destinations and travel cultures through emotional engagements The book brings together an international array of scholars from anthropology psychiatry history cultural geography and critical tourism studies to explore how the movement to and through the realms of exotic people wild natures subliminal art spirit worlds metropolitan cities and sexualised others variably provoke emotions peak experiences travel syndromes and inner dialogues The authors show how tourism challenges us to engage with concepts of self other time nature sex the body and death Through a set of ethnographic and historic cases they demonstrate that such engagements usually have little to do with the actual destination but rather are deeply anchored in personal memories repressed fears and desires and the collective imaginaries of our societies Guide Michelin Pour la
