Editor: Margaret MacLennan, University of Sydney

1. The first step is to identify the problem or question that needs to be answered.
 2. Next, gather relevant information and data to address the problem.
 3. Then, analyze the information and data to identify patterns and trends.
 4. After that, develop a hypothesis or a proposed solution based on the analysis.
 5. Finally, test the hypothesis or solution through experiments or further analysis.
 6. The results of the tests should be compared to the original problem or question.
 7. If the results support the hypothesis, then the hypothesis is accepted.
 8. If the results do not support the hypothesis, then the hypothesis is rejected.
 9. The process then repeats itself, starting from step 1, until a satisfactory solution is found.
 10. The final step is to communicate the findings and conclusions of the process.
