How Many Miles To Babylon:

How Many Miles to Babylon? Violet Needham, 2012 Claude Gilroy lived quietly with his father an architect in the country was suddenly told one day that a girl would be coming to live with them When Miranda arrived he did his utmost to be kind to her but he was not best pleased by the change in their lives Gradually Claude like the rest of the household became intrigued with Miranda's strange often wilful ways and by her constant harping on the old nursery rhyme How many Miles to Babylon This rhyme was linked in her confused mind with the tragedy of her father a composer who had just died and her mother whom she could barely remember

Back to the Present, Forward to the Past International Association for the Study of Irish Literatures. Conference, 2006 The island of Ireland north and south has produced a great diversity of writing in both English and Irish for hundreds of years often using the memories embodied in its competing views of history as a fruitful source of literary inspiration Placing Irish literature in an international context these two volumes explore the connection between Irish history and literature in particular the Rebellion of 1798 in a more comprehensive diverse and multi faceted way than has often been the case in the past The fifty three authors bring their national and personal viewpoints as well as their critical judgements to bear on Irish literature in these stimulating articles The contributions also deal with topics such as Gothic literature ideology and identity as well as gender issues connections with the other arts regional Irish literature in particular that of the city of Limerick translations the works of Joyce and comparisons with the literature of other nations The contributors are all members of IASIL International Association for the Study of Irish Literatures Back to the Present Forward to the Past Irish Writing and History since 1798 will be of interest to both literary scholars and professional historians but also to the general student of Irish writing and Irish culture
