Wallmo, Kathryn Bisack, Daniel K. Lew, Dale E. Squires, 2016-10-21 Protected marine species have populations that are depleted decreasing or are at risk of extinction or local extirpation As of 2015 The International Union for the Conservation of Nature a global environmental organization lists approximately 737 marine species worldwide that are considered at risk of extinction Many are provided legal protection through national laws requiring research and management measures aimed at recovering and maintaining the species at a sustainable population level Integral to the policy decision process involving the management and recovery of marine species is the consideration of trade offs between the economic and ecological costs and benefits of protection This suggests that economics at its core the study of trade offs has a significant role In the U S a somewhat traditional use of economics in protected species research and management has involved cost minimization or cost effectiveness analyses to help select or prioritize conservation actions Economic research has also provided estimates of public non market benefits of recovering species which can be used in larger management frameworks such as ecosystem based management and coastal and marine spatial planning Inherent in much of this research however are complex biological and ecological relationships in which varying degrees of scientific uncertainty are present Addressing this type of uncertainty can affect the economic outcomes related to protected species For example recent work suggests that increasing scientific precision in biological sampling and models can greatly affect the magnitude of economic benefits to commercial fisheries while other research suggests that public non market benefits of species recovery are sensitive to uncertainty about baseline population estimates Previous research has illustrated the importance of understanding the biological ecological and economic aspects of protected species management and recovery In this research topic we synthesize current protected marine species economic research and expand the discussion on present and future challenges related to protected species economics The series of manuscripts brings together an array of prominent researchers and advances our understanding of the ecological and economic aspects of managing and recovering protected marine species

Olympics and the end of apartheid sport altogether With his brand of attention grabbing direct action sports protest the 19 year old Hain emerged as a hero to some and enemy to others Now reflecting on these experiences with fifty years of hindsight Lord Hain together with South Africa's foremost sports historian and fellow anti apartheid activist Andr Odendaal shows how decades of relentless international and domestic campaigning for equality led to a Springbok team captained by black athlete Siya Kolisi winning the 2019 Rugby World Cup Interspersing a wide range of examples with personal testimony Pitch Battles explores the themes of sport globalisation and resistance from the deep past to the present day Published in the same year as the Stop The Tour documentary from acclaimed director Louis Myles this compelling story of sacrifice struggle and triumph reveals how sport should never be divorced from politics or society's values Robert Sobukwe - How can

Jamieson, 2015-04-01 When Gen Robert E Lee fled from Petersburg and Richmond Virginia in April 1865 many observers did not realize that the Civil War had reached its nadir A large number of Confederates from Jefferson Davis down to the rank and file were determined to continue fighting Though Union successes had nearly extinguished the Confederacy's hope for an outright victory the South still believed it could force the Union to grant a negotiated peace that would salvage some of its war aims As evidence of the Confederacy s determination two major Union campaigns along with a number of smaller engagements were required to quell the continued organized Confederate military resistance In Spring 1865 Perry D Jamieson juxtaposes for the first time the major campaign against Lee that ended at Appomattox and Gen William T Sherman s march north through the Carolinas which culminated in Gen Joseph E Johnston s surrender at Bennett Place Jamieson also addresses the efforts required to put down armed resistance in the Deep South and the Trans Mississippi As both sides fought for political goals following Lee s surrender these campaigns had significant consequences for the political military context that shaped the end of the war as well as Reconstruction Purchase the audio edition Baltimore City Directory ,1913 American Motorcyclist ,1995-08 American Motorcyclist magazine the official journal of the American Motorcyclist Associaton tells the stories of the people who make motorcycling the sport that it is It s available monthly to AMA members Become a part of the largest most diverse and most enthusiastic group of riders in the country by visiting our website or calling 800 AMA JOIN Annual Report USA Patent Office,1908 The Rural New-Yorker ,1926 Billboard ,1956-03-31 In its 114th year Billboard remains the world s premier weekly music publication and a diverse digital events brand content and data licensing platform Billboard publishes the most trusted charts and offers unrivaled reporting about the latest music video gaming media digital and mobile entertainment issues and trends
