Autobiographical Identities in Contemporary Arab Culture Valerie Anishchenkova, 2014-07-16 Over the last 40 years autobiography in Arab societies has moved away from exemplary life narratives and toward more unorthodox techniques such as erotic memoir writing postmodernist self fragmentation cinematographic self projection and blogging Valerie Anishchenkova argues that the Arabic autobiographical genre has evolved into a mobile unrestricted category arming authors with narrative tools to articulate their selfhood Reading works from Arab nations such as Egypt Iraq Morocco Syria and Lebanon Anishchenkova connects the century s rapid political and ideological developments to increasing autobiographical experimentation in Arabic works The immense scope of her study also forces consideration of film and online forms of self representation and offers a novel theoretical framework to these various modes of autobiographical cultural production

Carl Schmitt and The Buribunks Edwin Bikundo, Kieran Tranter, 2022-04-06 In 1918 a young Carl Schmitt published a short satirical fiction entitled The Buribunks He imagined a future society of beings who consistently wrote and disseminated their personal diaries Schmitt would go on to become the infamous philosopher of the exception and for a while the Crown Jurist of the Third Reich The Buribunks ironically for beings that lived only for self memorialisation has been mostly lost to history However the digital realm with its emphasis on the informatic traces generated by human doing and the continual interest in Schmitt s work to explain and criticise contemporary constellations of power suggests that The Buribunks is a text whose epoch has come This volume includes the first full translation into English of The Buribunks and a selection of critical essays on the text its meanings in the digital present its playing with and criticism of the literary form and its place within Schmitt s life and work The Buribunks and the essays provide a complex critical and provocative invitation to reimagine the relations between the human and their imprint and legacy within archives and repositories There is a fundamental exploration of what it means to be a being intensely aware of writing itself This is not just a volume for critical lawyers literary scholars and the Schmitt literati It is a volume that challenges a broad range of disciplines from philosophy to critical data studies to reflect on the digital present and its assembled and curated beings It is a volume that provides a set of fantastically located concepts images and histories that traverse ideas and practices play and politics power and possibility

The Nature of Data Jenny Goldstein, Eric Nost, 2022-10 When we look at some of the most pressing issues in environmental politics today it is hard to avoid data technologies Big data artificial intelligence and data dashboards all promise revolutionary advances in the speed and scale at which governments corporations conservationists and even individuals can respond to environmental challenges By bringing together scholars from geography anthropology science and technology studies and ecology The Nature of Data explores how the digital realm is a significant site in which environmental politics are waged This collection as a whole makes the argument that we cannot fully understand the current conjuncture in critical global environmental politics without understanding the role of data platforms devices standards and institutions In particular The Nature of Data addresses the contested practices of making and maintaining data infrastructure the imaginaries produced by data infrastructures the relations between state and civil society that data infrastructure reworks and the conditions under which technology can further socio ecological justice instead of re entrenching state and capitalist power This innovative volume presents some of the first research in this new but rapidly growing subfield that addresses the role of data infrastructures in critical environmental politics
