Inter/Cultural Communication Anastacia Kurylo,2012-07-23 Today students are more familiar with other cultures than ever before because of the media Internet local diversity and their own travels abroad As such traditional intercultural communication textbooks which focus solely on the differences approach aren t truly effective for today s students nor for this field s growth Using a social constructionist framework which explores how culture is constructed and produced in the moments in which it is experienced Inter Cultural Communication provides today s students with a rich understanding of how culture and communication affect and effect each other Inter Cultural Communication improves upon current textbooks in four significant ways 1 It provides a differences approach and a social constructionist approach 2 It explores the consequences of cultural moments on immediate communication and on larger scale social issues 3 It is descriptive not prescriptive of how culture is communicated and 4 It introduces intercultural topics rather than interpersonal topics Weaving multiple approaches together in order to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of and appreciation for the diversity of cultural and intercultural communication this text allows them to become more aware of their own identities and how powerful those identities can be in facilitating change both in their own lives and in the lives of others In addition the book will help students deal with unfamiliar cultures and understand those with whom they come in contact when they travel in their communities in the workplace in their home and online

The Washington, DC Media Corps in the 21st Century L. Hellmüller,2014-07-31 The book provides a fresh perspective on the shifting media landscape within Washington DC re evaluating journalist source relationships the power dynamic within the media corps and the ways in which technology have changed the description of DC political news detailing the ways in which media relationships are changing within Washington DC

Developing Language Teacher Autonomy through Action Research Kenan Dikilitaş,Carol Griffiths,2017-03-27 This book advances the theory of action research analyzing how it can be used to develop autonomy among language teachers Although acknowledging that the research process is not always linear the authors proceed according to a clear progression which teachers can adapt to their needs They provide examples narratives questions and tasks and give multiple ideas for establishing research questions choosing appropriate methodologies adapting to existing contexts and collecting data They also suggest possible instruments and give clear instructions for carrying out the most common kinds of statistical procedures and ideas for presenting discussing and writing up research findings In spite of its practical bias the book is theoretically and ethically rigorous and contains an extensive glossary for quick and easy reference It will appeal to trainee teachers in service teachers wanting to expand their own professional horizons or working for a higher qualification and is an invaluable reference for teacher educators and scholars

Doctoral Education: Research-Based Strategies for Doctoral Students, Supervisors and Administrators Lynn McAlpine,Cheryl

Amundsen,2011-02-16 The quality of the academics who undertake the work of teaching and research is critical to the significance status and relevance of our universities There is widespread evidence that doctoral students are not being properly prepared for the changing face of higher education and that once they take up academic positions they often experience many frustrations and tensions This book based on a four year long research program conducted by four academics and four graduate students investigates the experiences of doctoral students new academics and senior academics as they engage in their work related to doctoral education Doctoral Education Research Based Strategies for Doctoral Students Supervisors and Administrators offers research based strategies for improving doctoral education in a non technical and conversational way Those strategies include learning to be a new supervisor alongside other academic work developing an intellectual network during the doctoral journey giving and receiving feedback on scholarly writing and preparing for the oral defence Also based on research evidence the book challenges taken for granted practices and policies surrounding doctoral education including the gendered nature of disciplinary practices the paradox of writing in doctoral education and the public oversight of more and more aspects of academic work Intended for doctoral students academics staff and administrators this book provides several perspectives on the topic of doctoral education and contains the actual voices of doctoral students and new academics to illustrate its discussion Voices From Around the IEP Table Karrin

Lukacs,Sherry L. Steeley,2018-10-14 When a group meets to discuss a student s Individualized Education Program IEP they are called a team but they rarely understand the perspectives of the people with whom they are sitting at the table This is especially true when cultural and linguistic diversity is part of the equation This unique book explores the individual perspectives of IEP meeting participants who work with students who are culturally and linguistically diverse CLD Authors interviewed a principal a general education teacher a special education teacher a teacher of English for Speakers of Other Languages ESOL an educational advocate a disability rights attorney a parent a translator a school psychologist a specialist a transition services specialist and a guidance counselor Their experiences provide critical insight for those seeking to realize the potential of these sometimes marginalized students Interviews examined the dynamics of home school communication IEP meetings and cross cultural interactions The perspectives shared in this book relate to known best practices and also provide practical suggestions for improving the experiences of teams serving the CLD population Arab Approaches to Conflict Resolution Nahla Yassine-Hamdan,Frederic Pearson,2014-07-11 This book examines Arab approaches to mediation negotiation and settlement of political disputes This book proposes that two clusters of independent variables are potentially responsible for the distinctive nature of Arab conflict resolution Firstly those linked with Arab political regimes and imperatives and secondly those linked with Arab and or Islamic culture The text also focuses on the Arab League and its history of involvement in crisis and conflict situations along with the roles of individual leaders emissaries and extra regional actors such as IGOs Inter Governmental Organisations in undertaking mediation initiatives IGO and Arab League activity has taken on new importance since the various intervention attempts in connection with the Arab Spring since 2011. During the negotiation process, most Arab regimes tend to view conflicts within a broad historical context and Islamic culture prioritises the cohesion of the community and internal stability of the state over individual autonomy. This has created an authoritarian style of leadership and in practice, leaders in the Middle East have had near absolute authority in the decision making process, a fact which will have a lot of weight in conflict management and whether peace will endure for a long period of time. This book is unique in studying these clusters through comparative systematic case study analysis of events prior to and subsequent to the Arab Spring, augmented by a quantitative analysis of sample data on Arab disputes compiled from a larger and newly augmented study comprising the years 1945-2000. Complementary data from the Uppsala Conflict Data Program's UCDP data base of armed conflicts since 1975 is also utilized. This book will be of much interest to students of conflict resolution, peace and conflict studies, Middle Eastern politics and IR in general. Alexander von Humboldt Gregor C.

Falk, Manfred R. Strecker, Simon Schneider, 2022-07-23. This book aims to view and to understand Alexander von Humboldt from different perspectives and in varying disciplinary contexts. His contributions addressed numerous topics in the earth but also life sciences, spanning from geo botany, climatology, paleontology, oceanography, mineralogy, resources and hydrogeology to links between the environmental impact of humans, erosion and climate change. From the very beginning, he paved the way for a modern integrated earth system science approach to decipher, characterize and model the different forcing factors and their feedback mechanisms. It becomes obvious that Humboldt's holistic approach is far beyond simple description and empiric data collection. As documented and analyzed in the different texts of this volume, he combines observation and analysis with emotions and subjective perceptions in a very affectionate way. However, this publication does not intend to add another encyclopedic text compilation but to observe and critically analyze this unique personality's relevance in a modern context, particularly in discussing environmental and social key issues in the twenty-first century. Communicated

Stereotypes at Work Yifeng Hu, Anastacia Kurylo, 2024-05-15. In Communicated Stereotypes at Work, the editors and contributors posit that stereotypes communicated in the workplace remain a pervasive issue due to the dichotomy between the discriminatory and functional roles that these stereotypes can play in a range of professional settings. Contributors demonstrate that while the use of stereotypes in the workplace is distasteful and exclusionary, communicating these stereotypes can also appear on the surface to provide a pathway toward bonding with others, giving advice and reducing uncertainty. The result of this dichotomy is that those who communicate stereotypes in the workplace may not view this communication from themselves or others as being problematic. With an emphasis on qualitative methods and analyses, contributors deconstruct stereotypes by exploring the theoretical, empirical and pragmatic roles they play in communication. In doing so, authors expose the underpinnings of stereotypes and why they are communicated, focus on the role all of us play in perpetuating stereotypes and suggest alternative modes of productive discourse. Scholars of interpersonal and organizational communication cultural studies and sociology as well as practitioners of various professions will find this book particularly useful
