Name: _____

The USDA serving guide.

Food For Thought

What's on the school menu today? French fries, chips, or baked potatoes? Believe it or not, a battle is being fought over what is on your school lunch tray. The U.S. Department of Agriculture is responsible for creating nutritional guidelines for school lunches and wants to limit the amount of white potatoes and other starchy vegetables to one cup a week, or two servings. This proposal affects everyone from the potato farmer to the cafeteria worker to the students eating the tater tots. Not surprisingly, all of these people have differing opinions...

Eat Your Broccoli

Supporters of limiting potato servings argue that potatoes are often served fried or topped with high calorie items like sour cream, cheese, and bacon. They also worry that when students are given a choice between French fries or something like carrots or green beans, they too often choose the fries. Poor eating choices made early in life lead to obesity and numerous long-term health problems like diabetes and heart disease.

Did you know?

The school cafeteria is the largest restaurant in the country, serving over 31 million students every single day.

More Please...

Serving sizes in school lunches are based on grade level and age.

Would you like fries with that?

Opponents of the proposed change offer that potatoes are full of nutritional value, and aren't always served in unhealthy ways. Fries can be baked rather than fried, and baked potatoes can be topped with healthier alternatives, like salsa. They also argue that potatoes are a cheap and plentiful option for a vegetable serving and that limiting potatoes would increase school lunch costs across the nation.

Interested?

The people on all sides of this argument have an interest in the outcome of the debate. That just means they are interested or concerned with how things end up. People pay attention to things that will likely affect their lives.

How might limiting starchy vegetables like potatoes affect...

Contemporary Perspectives on Social Work in Acquired Brain Injury Grahame K. Simpson, Francis K.

Yuen, 2018-12-07 Contemporary Perspectives is the first book to address social work practice in the field of brain injury. Contributions are written by social work authors from around the world and highlight the diversity of social work practice and theory within this field. Chapters range from practice spanning interventions with families caring for a child with BI to interventions to assist the adjustment of families facing the challenge of supporting an adult relative with BI during the inpatient rehabilitation or post acute community phase. Work with parents with BI who are caring for children deemed to be at risk and a literature review outlining the impact of a BI on siblings. Other chapters detail a program for self advocacy, investigate the impact of violence related BI, evaluate a peer support program for people with BI, report on the role of support people in facilitating return to work after BI, and examine the role of social work within the interdisciplinary rehabilitation team. The volume highlights the valuable role social work makes to the field of BI and contributes to the knowledge base informing evidence informed practice within this field. This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Social Work in Disability Rehabilitation. Evidence into Practice Laurita M Hack, Jan Gwyer, 2013-01-03 The first text to provide comprehensive coverage of the three areas integral to evidence based practice: clinical expertise, understanding patient values and circumstances, and analyzing evidence from the literature. This integration is the heart of the optimal practitioner-patient relationship and the path to the very best patient care.
