Stickel, 1990 This volume contains the papers presented at the 10th International Conference on Automated Deduction CADE 10 CADE is the major forum at which research on all aspects of automated deduction is presented Although automated deduction research is also presented at more general artificial intelligence conferences the CADE conferences have no peer in the concentration and quality of their contributions to this topic The papers included range from theory to implementation and experimentation from propositional to higher order calculi and nonclassical logics they refine and use a wealth of methods including resolution paramodulation rewriting completion unification and induction and they work with a variety of applications including program verification logic programming deductive databases and theorem proving in many domains The volume also contains abstracts of 20 implementations of automated deduction systems The authors of about half the papers are from the United States many are from Western Europe and many too are from the rest of the world The proceedings of the 5th 6th 7th 8th and 9th CADE conferences are published as Volumes 87 138 170 230 310 in the series Lecture Notes in Computer Science PUBLISHER S WEBSITE Adaptive Hypertext and Hypermedia Peter Brusilovsky, Alfred Kobsa, Julita Vassileva, 2013-04-17 Hypertext hypermedia systems and user model based adaptive systems in the areas of learning and information retrieval have for a long time been considered as two mutually exclusive approaches to information access Adaptive systems tailor information to the user and may guide the user in the information space to present the most relevant material taking into account a model of the user s goals interests and preferences Hypermedia systems on the other hand are user neutral they provide the user with the tools and the freedom to explore an information space by browsing through a complex network of information nodes Adaptive hypertext and hypermedia systems attempt to bridge the gap between these two approaches Adaptation of hypermedia systems to each individual user is increasingly needed With the growing size complexity and heterogeneity of current hypermedia systems such as the World Wide Web it becomes virtually impossible to impose guidelines on authors concerning the overall organization of hypermedia information The networks therefore become so complex and unstructured that the existing navigational tools are no longer powerful enough to provide orientation on where to search for the needed information It is also not possible to identify appropriate pre defined paths or subnets for users with certain goals and knowledge backgrounds since the user community of hypermedia systems is usually quite inhomogeneous This is particularly true for Web based applications which are expected to be used by a much greater variety of users than any earlier standalone application A possible remedy for the negative effects of the traditional one size fits all approach in the development of hypermedia systems is to equip them with the ability to adapt to the needs of their individual users A possible way of achieving adaptivity is by modeling the users and tailoring the system's interactions to their goals tasks and interests In this sense the notion of adaptive hypertext hypermedia comes naturally to denote a hypertext or hypermedia system which reflects some features of the user and or characteristics of his system usage in a user model and utilizes this model in order to adapt various behavioral aspects of the system to the user This book is the first comprehensive publication on adaptive hypertext and hypermedia It is oriented towards researchers and practitioners in the fields of hypertext and hypermedia information systems and personalized systems It is also an important resource for the numerous developers of Web based applications The design decisions adaptation methods and experience presented in this book are a unique source of ideas and techniques for developing more usable and more intelligent Web based systems suitable for a great variety of users The practitioners will find it important that many of the adaptation techniques presented in this book have proved to be efficient and are ready to be used in various applications Logic and Programming Michel.

Parent,2013-06-29 In contrast to the effortless ease with which human beings control their limbs the design of controllers for robotic manipulator arms is a detailed meticulous business Motors controlling the arms need to be started and stopped at just the right moment so that the performance demanded by the user may be achieved at the end of a complicated manoeuvre And yet the same user wishes to express the task for the robot in the simplest possible terms without reference to the minute details of control sequences that his task demands It is the design of such interfaces between man and machine that is the subject of this volume Parent and Lurgeau develop the subject in a direct and logical order They first explain the principles of maximal effort control which not only ensure that motors are driven to provide high accuracy but also that this should be done with the least waste of energy and in the shortest possible time In this context they describe the operation of pneumatic logical devices that make rapid decisions at power levels that exceed by several orders those that can be achieved with electronic devices They achieve this whilst keeping the reader aware of the logical principles that are involved in the design of master control units the devices responsible for appropriate actions being taken as a function of time Secrets
