Her once vibrant life becomes a tangled miasma of medication specialists anaphylaxis and seemingly never ending attempts to explain what has gone so terribly wrong And for many years thereafter Sophie s life becomes subsumed with ideas not of health but of explanation and the narrative of how and why she became sick But slowly through both profound fatigue with the medical industrial complex and a deeply entwined relationship with the natural world she comes to another more fundamental understanding of what has happened to her body What if sickness is not a separation from the body What if health is not quite so easy to see What if physical pain leaves us no choice but to return to our bodies the pinpricks and lightning of illness stitching us back into a physical presence our society has taught us to ignore In a work both expansively tender and shockingly frank Sophie Strand offers readers a window onto her own winding journey through the maze of chronic illness a web not unlike those created by the mycorrhizal fungi whose networks she begins to see as a metaphor for the profound connections between all species and the earth Grounded deeply in the mountains of the Hudson Valley each moment of this far reaching narrative snakes its way through the multi layered ecology of the land around us from the stunningly powerful pollen of a phlox plant to the unexpected beauty and wisdom of the woodchuck The Body Is a Doorway dives into the murky waters of sickness and trauma as well as the resonant challenges and joys of friendship young adulthood first love and fertility Throughout in precise sparkling language it explores questions both personal and universal Is there healing beyond the human Beyond the hope for a cure or a happy ending Is there something wilder and more symbiotic beyond narrow ideas of well being

Learning to Think: A Memoir of Faith, Superstition, and the Courage to Ask Questions
Tracy King, 2024-04-09 Set in 1980s Birmingham England a piercing memoir about the liberating power of a scientific view of the world Tracy King was raised in a house of contradictions her family was happy and creative yet shadowed by debt phobias her father s alcoholism and the illusory promises of a born again Christian church The uneasy balance of the King household was irrevocably upended on a rainy spring night in 1988 when her father was killed by teenagers just blocks from their public housing estate Her mother s dysfunctional reliance on the church deepened following the tragedy and King suffering from undiagnosed anxiety stopped attending school The account of her father s death remained hazy made worse by the fact that four of the accused teenagers neighborhood boys she could not avoid were never charged What could have triggered such an act of aggression Clinging to hearsay and what little information she had from the police King allowed her imagination to fill in the rest Over the years in a bid to balm her grief and gaps in formal education King journeyed through multiple belief systems she distanced herself from fundamentalism searching for clarity instead in the occult paranormal beliefs and conspiracy theories Amid the chaos of her coming of age she stumbled upon a copy of Carl Sagan s The Demon Haunted World on the shelves of a Birmingham bookshop a discovery that proved transformative Sagan s sage caveat But I could be wrong became King s guiding light empowering her to confront her demons An eloquently written and often sharply funny account that is ever sensitive to the fallibility of memory and the nuances of truth Learning to Think is a resounding
