May,2017-05-23 This book examines the promises as well as the challenges the demographic dividend brings to sub Saharan Africa as fertility rates in the region fall and the labor force grows It offers a detailed analysis of what conditions must be met in order for the region to take full economic advantage of ongoing population dynamics As the book makes clear the region will need to accelerate reforms to cope with its demographic transition in particular the decline of fertility The continent will need to foster human capital formation through renewed efforts in the areas of education health and employment This will entail a true vision and determination on the part of African leaders and their development partners The book will help readers to gain solid knowledge of the demographic trends and provide insights into socioeconomic policies that eventually might lead sub Saharan Africa into a successful future Africa's Development Dynamics 2019 Achieving Productive Transformation African Union Commission,OECD,2019-11-05 Africa s Development DynamicsWhat are the major economic and social trends in Africa What is Africa s role in globalisation This annual report presents an Africa open to the world and towards the future uses the lessons learned in the five African regions Central East North Southern and West Africa to develop recommendations and share good practices The report identifies innovative policies and offers practical policy recommendations adapted to the specificities of African economies Drawing on the most recent available statistics this analysis of development dynamics aims to help African leaders reach the targets of the African Union s Agenda 2063 at all levels continental regional national and local Every year this report will focus on one strategic theme This 2019 edition explores policies for productive transformation It proposes three main policy focus for transforming firms providing business services to clusters of firms developing regional production networks and improving exporting firms ability to thrive in fast changing markets This volume feeds into a policy debate between African Union s nations citizens entrepreneurs and researchers It aims to be part of a new co operation between countries and regions focused on mutual learning and the preservation of common goods This report is the result of a partnership between the African Union Commission and the OECD Development Centre Logistics and Global Value Chains in Africa Adebisi Adewole,John J. Struthers,2018-08-14 Focusing on global value chains and their importance to trade this edited collection explores the strategic role of logistics and supply chain infrastructure in the development of Africa Skilled authors present critical analysis of the current state of logistics in Africa and suggest improvements to policy and practice which address the issue of poor trading relationships This book will engage entrepreneurs academics and policy makers interested in international business raising awareness of the need for better trade infrastructure in Africa in order to ensure the continent s economic development How Africa Eats David Luke,2025-05-22 Why do images and reports of starving and malnourished Africans appear so often in the media What are the actual dimensions of the problem What has trade and climate got to do with it In How Africa Eats Trade Food Security and Climate Risks award winning author David Luke and a team of researchers seek to answer these questions to explain why Africa struggles with food security and what can be done about it The intersection between trade agriculture policies and climate risks is fundamental to this enquiry Using a data led approach this book examines in detail what Africa eats and where and how it is produced It investigates how finance investment foreign aid institutions actors and capacities interact with policies in holding Africa back from becoming an agricultural powerhouse despite having 60 per cent of the world s arable land area The book evaluates how climate change exacerbates the continent s challenges and scrutinises the sustainability of production systems in the face of environmental volatility Experts in trade policy international law and development unpack the barriers that currently limit the growth of intra African food trade including the role of the World Trade Organization WTO and model the expected impact of the implementation of the African Continental Free Trade Area AfCFTA on agricultural trade The extent of food deprivation in Africa is sobering The United Nations estimates that a fifth of the African population is undernourished and a quarter live with the day to day experience of severe food insecurity How Africa Eats provides a vital open access resource for academics policymakers and trade experts seeking to address the continent s food insecurity in the face of urgent threats from climate change trade barriers and complex policy challenges Crop Receipts - A New Financing Instrument for Africa Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,The Global Agriculture and Food Security Program,The World Bank,2019-01-22 Crop receipts are a promising innovation in agricultural finance first developed in Brazil about 20 years ago and recently replicated in Eastern Europe Crop Receipts allow farmers to obtain pre harvest finance against a promise to produce a certain amount of crops with their future farm production serving as main collateral Taking inspiration from past successes this study examines the scope for adapting crop receipts to the African context and for introducing them on a pilot basis The study analysis of the evolution of crop receipts and explores opportunities challenges and entry points for crop receipt in Africa Crop receipt pilots in Uganda and Zambia are considered based on a detailed assessment of the legal frameworks financial and agricultural sectors and stakeholder consultations The report closes with the main findings and offers some strategic and operational considerations for introducing crop receipt finance in Africa The study was conducted by the FAO investment Centre within its partnership with the International Finance Corporation IFC with co funding from the

GAFSP Private Sector Window While the primary objective of the study is to guide IFC in exploring concrete investment opportunities for piloting crop receipts its findings and recommendations could be of interest to a broader set of stakeholders in agricultural finance and development Global Agricultural and Food Marketing in a Global Context: Advancing Policy, Management, and Innovation Maiwashe-Tagwi, Aluwani,Mawela, Ailweli Solomon,Chauke, Phineas Khazamula,2023-03-20 Over 70% of food production is in the hands of farmers however numerous studies have shown that smallholder farmers do not have access to markets The reasons for this failure have been attributed to a lack of financial resources and infrastructure To date no one has questioned the role that graduates academics agricultural economists and agricultural extension officials play in the plight of market access Global Agricultural and Food Marketing in a Global Context Advancing Policy Management and Innovation discusses key aspects of the agricultural marketing context including the policy environment the available local markets and how they operate the conditions and requirements for international trade the logistic system operations and the technology developments in marketing Covering topics such as produce food production and digital marketing this reference work is ideal for farmers government officials policymakers researchers scholars academicians practitioners educators and students Structure, conduct and performance of maize markets in Malawi Ochieng, Dennis O.,Botha, Rosemary,Baulch, Bob,2019-08-21 Seasonal analysis of the structure conduct and performance SCP of markets for staple crops has received relatively little attention in food policy analysis yet it has important implications for food and nutrition security This study employs a mixed methods approach to analyze the SCP of maize markets in Malawi in the 2018 19 main harvest and lean seasons We interviewed 749 traders from 74 markets across 8 districts held 28 focus group discussions FGD with a total of 480 farmers and analyzed daily and weekly price data from 13 regional markets The structure of maize markets was explored by examining marketing channels barriers to entry and the competitiveness of different tiers of the marketing chain Inequality in sales revenues switches in trader types between seasons quality and weights standardization and the behavior of traders were used to examine market conduct Performance was assessed by examining traders costs and margins and the spatial and temporal integration of maize markets We find that Malawi s maize market is pyramidal in structure and highly competitive at lower tiers of trade but oligopolistic at higher tiers The market channels vary across seasons with switches between trader types and instances of rural urban trade reversals There is considerable inequality of sales revenues among traders of similar capacities and a widespread lack of structured trading despite existing institutions A high ratio of marketing costs to revenue suggests marketing inefficiencies Malawi maize prices were highly seasonal and more volatile than neighboring countries In contrast to previous studies our findings show weak spatial integration of markets and slow price adjustments to long run equilibrium values even among short distance market pairs The study highlights five pathways to improving Malawi s maize marketing system 1 increased policy predictability to promote private sector investment 2 institutionalization of quality grades and standardization of weights and measures 3 increased commercialization of smallholder maize production 4 investment in enabling infrastructure and 5 the promotion of structured trading US Commodity Futures Trading Handbook - Strategic Information and Regulations IBP, Inc,2013-08-01 US Commodity Futures Trading Handbook Strategic Information and Regulations
