work with children in the early years Learning from Baby P Sharon Shoesmith, 2016-08-20 Sharon Shoesmith was Director of Children's Services for Haringey in 2007 at the time of the death of Peter Connelly also known as Baby P. In Learning from Baby P she carries out a dispassionate analysis of the events which followed Peter Connelly's death documenting the responses of the media, politicians and the public. She explores the psychological and emotional responses we share when faced with such horrifying cases of familial child homicide and how a climate of fear and blame which follows such tragedies can lead to negative consequences for other children at risk of harm and for the social workers striving to protect them. Learning from Baby P is a thought provoking book which aims to deepen understanding and shed light on the difficult relationship between politics, the media and child protection.

Social Work, Parents and the Child Protection Process Katrin Bain, John Harris, 2024-10-18 Despite the pivotal role played by parents in the child protection process, little attention has been paid to how social workers perceive them. Exploring representations of parents within Children's Services at the levels of policy, organisation and frontline practice, the concept of citizenship is used to construct a typology with ten variants of parent citizenship. The typology reveals the complexities of parental representations and their relationship to the content of policy, organisational environments and dominant societal themes as it uncovers how social workers represent parents in their day to day practice. The book is a resource that can be used by students, practitioners, researchers and parent advocacy organisations to evaluate policy and practice and to contribute to the search for the best possible outcomes for families. Arguing that parental participation in the child protection process is essential, the book increases the visibility of parents and contributes to a much needed dialogue.
